Find 11 Cents In 'Get Rich' Offices

In a bold challenge to the legality of Boston's latest get-rich-quick chain letter promotion, state and county authorities today seized all available books and records of the Boston Discount Group.

Though the operators had promised subscribers profits ranging as high as 10,656 per cent on a $5.95 investment and were estimated to have $20,000 to $25,000 in their possession, the raiding group reported:

"We found exactly 11 cents in assets in the offices in Devonshire street."

The impounding of the records was the second successive blow suffered by the promoters in the space of a few hours.

COURT BANS OPERATIONS

Earlier Supreme Court Justice Charles H. Donahue ordered the new concern into temporary receivership and directed an examination of the books by auditors.

At the same time he issued an injunctive order restraining the

Reds Give $5000 a Year, More If—

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14 (AP)—Bill McKechnie signed a two-year contract calling for a $25,000 a year salary today as manager of the Reds baseball club.

General Manager Warren C. Giles said only two other major league pilots made "anything like" that amount, naming Bill Terry of the Giants and Joe McCarthy of the Yankees.

The contract calls for a $5000 a year bonus if the Reds' attendance reaches the average of 450,000 a year, and if the team finishes in the first division.

Asserting that she was the common-law wife of Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., Brady gangster slain in the Bangor battle, Miss Christine Puckett, 19, of Indianapolis, pictured with her 14-months-old son, Russell Lee Shaffer, III, announced she would fight for the slain gunman's property. She said she and Shaffer became engaged when she was 17 and he gave her a wedding ring and introduced her as his wife.

REPORT 2 GIRLS PICKED UP IN BRIDGEPORT

By JOHN W. ENGLISH and ARTHUR J. QUINN

Boston Evening American Staff Correspondents

Al Brady's pint-sized killers had planned to use the air lanes on pillaging expeditions in New England and New York when the Indiana mobsters were obliterated by police and G-men in Bangor, Me., it was learned today.

While Brady and his two henchmen were in hiding in Bridgeport, Ct., the smirking public enemy No. 1 took flying lessons at a nearby airport and also made several survey flights over lower New England and New York City.

Two Bridgeport pilots identified Brady as Edwin Bason, whom they thought was an oil company salesman. He was accompanied by an attractive brunette on one flight.

FLY CAPTIVE WEST

Meanwhile, as G-men started westward by plane with James Dalhover, surviving meber of the trio of terrorists, it was revealed that Dalhover and his slain comrades may have participated in a $3850 bank holdup at Providence July 26.

At the same time, the bullet-torn body of Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., baby member of the gang, was on its way to Indiana by train.

As the train bearing the body

Budget Balance Is Demanded

Demand that the federal government balance the budget was made today by Orval W. Adams, newly-elected president of the American Bankers Association, as he took office at the 63d annual convention of the association.

Proposing two steps toward balancing the budget, Adams said:

"First there must be a substantial decrease in government expenditures and, second, an increase in taxes more equitably distributed over a much broader base."

In resolutions adopted today, the bankers oppose branch banking across state lines, declared that a return to a balanced budget should be the prime objective of the administration fiscal policy and called for elimination of duplicate taxation by local, state and federal governments.

Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, nationally known economist, today told the delegates that the "emergency period in banking lies in the past" and "banking as a whole is once more a profitable business."

Dr. Virgil Jordan, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, said business surveys were "a waste of human energy."

12 Waiting To Testify Of Profits

The Suffolk County grand jury today opened its inquiry into the reputedly illegal profits reaped by former City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan in the purchase of bonds for the city of Boston.

It is charged that Dolan, while in the city's service, wrongfully amassed $131,161.90 through the operations of the Legal Securities Corporation, a self-controlled "dummy."

Witnesses were presented to the jury by Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle, acting for District Attorney William J. Foley, author of the investigation.

DOLAN BOOKS READY

First to testify was City Clerk Wilfred Doyle. While he was closeted with the grand jury, more than a dozen others waited to be called.

Among these were John Patrick Connolly, clerk of Suffolk Superior Court, who has in his custody books and records of the Legal Securities Corporation since trial of the city's civil suit against Dolan.

Others ranged in chairs in the anteroom included Theodore Rogan, formerly associated with the Federal National Bank; Robert Emerson of Beacon street, Brookline.

DOLAN ORDERED TO PAY

Also Attorneys Edward Donovan of Beacon street and Richard Seamans of State street; Harold Simpson of Coolidge street, Brookline, and persons connected with the Old Colony Trust Company.

The decision to explore possible criminal phases of the ex-treasurer's security dealings in behalf of the city was reached late last month after Superior Court Judge Edward F. Hanify issued a final decree, directing Dolan to repay the city $178,072.37.

The final decree, signed on September 26, marked Dolan's final defeat in the long battle to escape penalty by the state's courts.

INTEREST OF $40,417.67

Judge Hanify's decree showed that Dolan's appeal from an original order by Judge Hanify was a costly procedure as far as he was concerned.

The original judgment of the Superior Court fixed Dolan's liability at $171,579.57, representing alleged fraudulent profits of $131,161.90 and interest of $40,417.67.

Reward of $1000 in Vote Fraud

With a city-wide purge of illegally registered voters already under way, Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty today spurred the investigation with a personal reward of $1000 for the arrest and conviction of those responsible.

The commissioner's offer, which advisors declared was perfectly legal, came as the Boston election commission dropped an initial batch of 16 names from the Charlestown voting lists.

All 16 had been summoned to appear by noon before the commission, but the special delivery summonses were returned by the post-office department.

"I intend to get at the bottom of these election frauds before election time," Commissioner Timilty declared.

Clergy in Far East Get Direct Order

On World War Fronts

ROME—Vatican instructs Catholic clergy in Far East to co-operate with Japanese action in China "without reserve . . . wherever Bolshevist danger appears active."

SHANGHAI—U. S. marines shelled in fierce attack on Shanghai, one marine and one American sailor wounded. 50 Chinese in International Settlement killed.

LONDON—Il Duce's haste in rushing huge new army to North Africa arouses British and French fear of grave showdown soon on question of foreign volunteers in Spain.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 14 (AP)—A reliable Vatican source said today that the Holy See, in carrying out the Catholic church's world-wide campaign against Bolshevism, had instructed its hierarchy and missions in the Far East to co-operate with Japanese action in China "wherever Bolshevist danger appears active."

These orders, the Vatican source said, have gone out in a private memorandum defining the Vatican's position in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

These make plain, however, the Vatican informant added, that complete impartiality is the rule in ministering to the wounded of either side.

This action, it was asserted by the Vatican source, coming after the recognition of Insurgent Spanish Generalissimo Franco's regime in Spain and after numerous recent assertions of the Pope vigorously condemning Communism, seemed to indicate the determination of the Vatican to carry on relentless war against the spread of Communism as inimical to the church.

The same quarter said that Japan's action "tends to arrest Bolshevist penetration in Asia," and that the memorandum contains eight specific instructions, the more significant of which are summarized as follows:

"To assist wounded on both sides.

"To preach the necessity of

G-Men Fly West With Gang Captive

moved out of the Bangor station. Undertaker H. Clifton Eye said the young bandit's body was riddled with bullets from ankles to brain in the desperate Columbus Day street battle with police and G-men.

BULLETS MISSED HEART

By an amazing coincidence, the undertaker revealed Shaffer had been shot every place but in the heart.

A Bangor "Potters' Field" loomed as the final resting place for Brady, whose body still lay on a slab in a funeral establishment late today.

In Bridgeport, Pilots Al Burnham and Al Zotack told of Brady's flying activities. They quoted him as saying he was making an air survey of Fairfield County, Ct., for the oil company.

Shaffer, they said, accompanied Brady to the Bridgeport airport on one occasion, but did not fly with him.

The former Bridgeport landlady of the three desperadoes told police they had represented themselves to her as "hardware men."

LINKED TO R. I.

In Providence, Paul Lancaster, a teller, said that Brady and Shaffer strikingly resembled two of the three men who robbed the Federal Hill branch of the Industrial Trust Company in the daring July hold-up.

G-men who mowed down Brady and Shaffer and captured Dalhover moved out of Bangor today, leaving one fo their number behind to look after Agent Walter Walsh, slightly wounded in the gun battle.

HUNT GANG ALLIES

While the plane bearing Dalhover back to Indiana soared toward the West, the unrelenting hunt for remaining allies of the so-called second Dillinger gang spread across New England and other Eastern and Midwestern states.

Three Massachusetts underworld figures, said to have come to Maine to help the notorious killers plan a New England reign of criminal terror, were tracked through the state by police and G-men, it was reliably learned.

Trembling with the cold, Dalhover, the "runt killer," was unceremoniously awakened at 5 a. m. by Myron Gurnea, chief of the federal detail that wiped out the mob, and told to get dressed.

His removal from this city was as sudden and dramatic as the G-man and police coup that snuffed out the vicious careers of Brady and Shaffer, his desperado pals.

HALF ASLEEP

Half asleep and still groggy from the almost continuous grilling to which he has been subjected since his capture in a sporting goods store trap, Dalhover was told by the taciturn Gurnea:

"Get up. We're going back."

Dalhover, his manacled hands rubbing his eyes, replied as shortly:

"All right. Let's go."

Dressing quickly he munched a sandwich and drank a cup of coffee handed him by the G-man and left the police station with them.

The pint-sized bandit was handcuffed to Detective Meredith Stewart of the Indiana state police and to another federal agent when he was loaded into a waiting automobile and rushed to the airport.

Behind the car bearing him was one filled with machine-gun armed G-men and a Bangor police cruiser.

SEALED ORDERS

At the air field, a government plane, its motors turning, awaited the grim party.

Asked their destination, the tight lipped chief federal man declared:

"You'll have to wait until we're up in the air to learn what it is."

Then the buff-colored, four-passenger Stimson cabin plane hurtled down the runway and took off.

Police said it would take the captive directly back to South Bend, Ind., where Dalhover is wanted for the confessed killing of State Trooper Paul Minneman and the slaying of Police Sergeant Richard Rivers, of Indianapolis.

TALKS FREELY

Before his removal, Dalhover was said to have talked freely to his questioners, talking desperately in an effort to win leniency for himself by "peaching" on others connected with the gang.

FEARS GALLOWS

Dalhover's fear of death on an Indiana gallows was said to have been so great that he was said to have volunteered as a government witness against any accomplices taken as a result of his information.

Among those sought after his confessions were the three Massachusetts gangsters who came to Maine to join the Indiana outlaws in their deadly forays.

Hunted by federal operatives in Bar Harbor, exclusive society summer resort, two of the men were from Springfield, Mass., and the third from Holyoke, it was asserted.

Four G-men were said by Police Chief George C. Abbott of Bar Harbor to have been tracing an automobile with Ohio plates in which the Massachusetts thugs were riding.

TRACE AUTO PLATES

Abbott declared the government sleuths were also seeking information about Nevada license plates No. 972-409 and Maine plates No. 155-993, believed in possession of the suspects.

The G-men were also reported to have gone to Ellsworth, Me., on a similar quest.

It was believed that the Massachusetts men wanted were implicated in the proposed robbery of a Somerville, Mass., auto factory, which Dalhover was said to have revealed.

Their objective in the Bay State plant, it was said, was an $85,000 payroll.

At the same time Police Chief Timothy F. Leahy and Chief Inspector Patrick F. Ready of Cambridge, Mass., disclosed that the Brady gang had plotted a series of bank robberies in that town and in Greater Boston.

Threads in the far-flung hunt for aids of the defunct gang spread north to the Canadian boundary, West to Chicago and South to Miami.

group from continuing in business and named David J. Coheen as temporary receiver.

Officials who invaded the offices of the chain letter concern were Assistant Attorney General Morris Goldman, Assistant-District Attorney Garrett Byrne, Captain John A. Dorsey, attached to the attorney general's offices, and Inspector Martin Conroy, of the staff of District Attorney William J. Foley.

The report of the concern's visible assets was made by Dorsey, who also revealed that no one was found in authority at the place. He also said no bank accounts or detailed ledger entries were found.

The memoranda found, however, led authorities to conclude that at least $3000 will be turned over to the group's assets before the end of the day.

2 TO FACE QUIZ

The Boston Evening American learned, meanwhile, that two of the group's officials have been in conference with counsel and had promised to be available for interrogation as soon as the books are audited.

These officers are John S. Rogers and Martin Slater. It was expected the audit would be completed by 6 p. m.

Kenneth L. Backman, manager of the Boston Better Business Bureau, and Edward W. Gallagher, chief investigator, have submitted to the attorney general detailed reports of the financial setup and operations of similar organizations which have flourished briefly in Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Toronto and Pontiac, Mich.

Authorities have also received photographs and criminal records of financial wizards who have been convicted in this country in connection with a variety of fantastic Ponzi-like schemes for over-night wealth.

District Attorney Foley announced he had assigned Byrne to the forces investigating the 107¼ to 1 financial parlay to "aid the attorney general's office in any manner possible.

Byrne, he said, is also under instructions to make a complete report in a parall investigation by the district attorney's office.

Burglar Victim Bares Massage

Robert E. Ulrich, 25, of Stockton, Cal., wanted on 18 charges in New York, was pictured today as an obliging burglar, who even attempted by massage to relieve a victim's sinus pains.

It was while he was arraigned on an armed robbery charge in Waltham court.

Ulrich, charged with armed robbery at the home of the Misses Elsie and Rosamond Coolidge, Coolidge Hill road, Watertown, was ordered held in $25,000 by Judge P. Sarsfield Cunniff for a hearing October 21.

The alleged "massage treatment" occurred a few hours before the Coolidge robbery, according to Sergeant James M. Igoe of the Watertown police, at the home of another alleged victim, John Cronin of Shattuck road, Watertown.

Igoe told Judge Cunniff that Cronin was ailing in bed on the morning of October 9 when a burglar entered his home.

Cronin said:

"Please be quiet. I'm sick," according to Sergeant Igoe.

"What's the matter?" the intruder queried.

"Heart trouble and sinus," was the reply.

Then the burglar vigorously massaged Cronin's neck, bemoaning the fact there was no rubbing alcohol to aid the ministrations.

The operation completed, the burglar took a sum of money from Cronin's trousers and departed.

League Honors Cong. Healy

Honorary membership in the Theodore Roosevelt Detachment of the Marine Corps League, Inc., will be conferred on Congressman Arthur Healy at a joint installation of officers Saturday at the Parker House.

Incoming officers who will be installed by Jerome Cohen, Jr., vice-commandant of the Marine Corps League, are: Ira S. Wade, Roxbury, commandant; Frederick Hickey, Winthrop, and Howard Watts, Roxbury, vice-commandants; William Phelan, Watertown, adjutant; Daniel A. McKenzie, Wollaston, chaplain; Charles Creaser, West Roxbury, judge-advocate; John McKenna, Dorchester, sergeant-at-arms, and Paul Sargent, Sr., Jamaica Plain, chief of staff.

Lula Gross will be installed as president of the auxiliary.

Hart Show Omits Al Smith Lyric

A lyric "concerning Al Smith" was deleted from the musical show "I'd Rather Be Right" at the request of principal actor, George M. Cohan, it was revealed today. The show is now in Boston.

Needy Get Free Milk Today

Free milk—23,000 quarts a day—started flowing into the homes of Boston needy today under the federal government's surplus purchasing program as a legislative commission recessed at the State House to study the Massachusetts milk market controversy.

Through 37 distributing depots, the welfare department began deliveries of "free milk," purchased from the federal government at a price of two cents a quart.

Federal Surplus Commodity Commission buying agents, in turn, purchase the surplus milk from the market equalization pool in the Boston area at a reduced price of seven cents a quart, providing a market for the accumulating surpluses and clearing the market of threatened over-supply. State laws governing milk production and control will be reviewed by the legislative commission, which opened its inquiry today.

Trouble Ahead For Roosevelt In Congress

Extra Session Fight Over Black, Foreign Policy Looms

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—President Roosevelt, in the opinion of most congressional leaders, has opened up a Pandora's box of troubles by calling the recalcitrant 75th Congress back into special session in mid-November.

None of them wanted a special session, after the eight months' record of bickering and quarreling that ended late in August with the big Democratic majorities split into sullen factions. They believe the recess period has been too short for the wounds of the last session to heal; that another six or eight weeks might have helped the situation.

Mr. Roosevelt's outlined program—crop control legislation, wages and hours laws, governmental reorganization, and further regional planning—is controversial enough in itself, so controversial, in fact, they couldn't put it through in eight months of continuous sitting.

BLACK AND WAR FIGHTS

What the leaders fear even more is the opportunity that will be afforded now to the Congress to blow off steam concerning the President's foreign policy, the revival of controversy over Justice Black's admitted affiliation with the Ku Klux Klan, the steadily rising cost of living, and a dozen other issues.

Mr. Roosevelt's Chicago speech, in which he called for "concerted action" by the democratic powers of the world to stop the aggressions of the dictator powers sincerely alarmed many members of the Senate and House. Either publicly or privately, they deplored the speech as tending to push the United States, if not toward war, at least toward entanglement in the sorry state of affairs in Europe and the Far East.

FEARS TO HURT CHINA

Pacifist, isolationist and anti-war groups are already publicly critical of Mr. Roosevelt for failure to invoke the Neutrality Act in the Sino-Japanese war. The administration has refrained from such a step because there has been no formally declared war between Japan and China, and for the further reason that application of the act would not worry Japan much, but would handicap China in efforts to obtain war materials. Administration critics maintain this is a lame excuse.

In fact, Representative George Holden Tinkham, (R.) Massachusetts, long-time isolationist, cabled an appeal from Europe today asking for impeachment of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull for failure to invoke the Neutrality Act which, he said, was tantamount to nullifying the expressed will of Congress.

In whatever direction the worried leaders looked today they saw potential trouble ahead for this extra session, which will merge into the regular January session and last probably far into the summer.

The President's Speech

IT was the evident intention of President Roosevelt in his most recent fireside chat to ALLAY THE ALARM raised by his Chicago speech on International affairs.

The most reassuring thing about it is his apparent realization that he had given the nation CAUSE FOR ALARM, and his haste to make an effort toward reassurance.

He had said in Chicago that a "quarantine" should be established against aggressor nations, and that America should join in a "concerted effort" of peaceful nations against warlike nations.

The instant alarm of the nation over a course so much akin to that of Woodrow Wilson WHICH LED AMERICA INTO THE WORLD WAR was made known to the president.

Now he says reassuringly:

"From 1913 to 1921 I was fairly close to world events and in that period, while I learned much of what to do, I also learned much of what NOT to do."

He does not speak again of "quarantines" or "concerted actions," which had been so widely interpreted as the suggestion of departure from our tradition of non-involvement in foreign alliances.

As is his custom, the President leaves so much of what he MEANS to be deduced from what he does not say.

He seeks to convey the impression that he is not going to follow Woodrow Wilson's course or make Wilson's mistakes.

HOWEVER, the disturbing fact remains that, in at least one specific instance, the President has already taken the course of Wilson.

He has committed America to participation in an International conference dealing with the Japanese situation—a conference suggested by and certainly to be MANAGED by the League of Nations.

It was in the forming of just such International Alliances as this that Woodrow Wilson erred most tragically.

Our World war experience proved Wilson's error. It got us back to the fundamental American principles first enunciated by the founders of America and ever since adhered to with profit to the nation.

The President well says America does not want war, that America hates war.

He must also know America does not want entangling alliances with foreign nations, particularly does not want involvement in the intrigues of the League of Nations.

Sharp Cuts in Relief Ordered by Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 14 (INS)—From the Hudson River home of President Roosevelt came word today that heavy federal relief expenditures must be curtailed sharply from now on.

The President, in the quiet of his study, started necessary spadework for the special session of Congress convening November 15.

He was basing his approach on the theory that "persistent subsidies ultimately bankrupt the government." A "definite balance" of the Federal budget at the end of this fiscal year was his goal, and his administrative aides were under orders to cut expenditures to the bone.

COMPLEX PROGRAM

Mr. Roosevelt further was drawing together a complex program which he asserts will result in an upward adjustment of wages and farm prices, yet keep the American housewife's market bill "within reach."

The executive was committed to legislation which would stabilise farm prices, particularly in view of this year's bumper crops. At the same time, he was proceeding on the theory that "we ought always to have enough food at prices within the reach of the consuming public."

DRIVE ON NEW BILLS

Lines were being laid to push through basic New Deal legislation before the Christmas holidays on such controversial subjects as crop control, hours and wages, government reorganization and regional planning for public works.

The President's day was free of engagements, according to Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre. This was to give him uninterrupted time with his 83-year-old mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, who recently returned from a three-month tour of Europe.

Barkley Sees Program Enacted "By Christmas"

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Five of the administration's leading legislative measures probably will be "out of the way" by Christmas, Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, majority leader, said today upon his return from Europe.

"It looks," he said, "like we will get the farm control bill, wages and hours legislation, government reorganization, regional planning, and strengthening of the anti-trust laws out of the way by Christmas."

The senator added that Congress did not intend to fix any new taxes, asserting:

"It is impossible to say what we will do next year, but the 1938 Budget is already taken care of. I can say there seems to be no increase of taxes necessary in any place."

Secret Love Test In Warner's Suit

Magnate's Son Tells Of Calling Blonde In Fake Jilting

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14 (INS)—A secret "love test," conversations, threats of face-punching and details of alleged romantic interludes in a darkened kitchenette, combined today to form one more hectic chapter in the romance of Tommy (Love Captive) Warner, Jr. and blonde Jean MacDonald.

Young Warner, son of a Pasadena multimillionaire automobile parts manufacturer, was questioned at a deposition hearing in his suit for an accounting of money allegedly paid to Mrs. Pearl Antibus, private detective, for determining if the beautiful divorcee, Jean, really liked him.

The hearing scarcely had gotten under way when young Tommy threatened to punch Attorney Harry Goodman, who was asking him some pointed questions.

THREATENS ATTORNEY

After inviting Goodman, who represents Mrs. Antibus in her suit against Warner, Sr., for $1,260,000 damages for injuries assertedly suffered in a "love captive" raid on her ranch home last summer, to meet him in the hall, Tommy said:

"I ought to smack you on the kisser."

Finally, aided by his intimates, Tommy was able to get his anger and resentment under control.

Young Warner said Mrs. Antibus was employed to investigate Mrs. MacDonald last June 2 during a telephone conversation between New York and Los Angeles. Warner was in New York with his father.

Returning to Los Angeles four days later Tommy told of going to an apartment rented by Mrs. Antibus adjoining one occupied by Mrs. MacDonald and her mother.

LISTENS BY DICTAPHONE

The "test" of the blonde Jean's love for Warner was made after several days of listening by dictaphone to conversations in the MacDonald apartment.

At 1:30 a. m., June 11, Warner, from the adjacent apartment, telephoned Mrs. MacDonald, whom he had not seen since his return to the city several days before, it was brought out.

"Why did you call her?" asked Attorney Goldman.

"I wanted to antagonize her and see what her reaction would be."

"Repeat that conversation."

"Well, I asked Jean where she had been and who she had been running around with. She was surprised to hear my voice and said 'Tommy darling, where are you?' I told her it didn't make any difference where I was and that I was fed up. Then I hung up."

Warner said he then hurried to the dictaphone and listened to what transpired next door in the wake of his call.

SOBS HYSTERICALLY

"Jean fainted, I guess. There was a thud and a period of quiet. Then she started sobbing. She was hysterical. Her mother tried to calm her, but she just kept sobbing and calling, 'Tommy, Tommy.' That kept up about two hours and then everything was quiet.

"Before that, though, I realized I couldn't stand any more and told the others I was going to Jean. I told Mrs. Antibus I had found out what I wanted to know and wanted to call the whole thing off."

"What did Mrs. Antibus say?" Goldman interposed.

"She told me not to do it, that 'this is only the first blow,' that Jean was only mad at losing a 'good thing.'"

Several of the conversations heard over the dictaphone took place between Jean and her brother-in-law, John MacDonald, according to the witness. He also said he had been informed by Chester Laueson, an associate of Mrs. Antibus, that Mrs. MacDonald clad only in pajamas, had been in the kitchen of her apartment with MacDonald late at night.

An investigation, peering through a window, told him, Warner testified that "the lights went out and I couldn't see what took place."

Marion Pierce Drops Suit

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Marion Hughes Whitehead Pierce, who once sent her wealthy husband, Andrew Pierce, 3d, to Alimony jail, has dropped her separation suit against the New England textile heir.

Neither Mrs. Pierce's attorney, Sanford Jarrett, nor counsel for Pierce, I. T. Flatto, would discuss reports the husband had made a cash settlement.

Pierce was released in $25,000 bail on October 17, 1936, from Alimony jail, where he had been lodged on charges preferred by his wife. In her separation suit Mrs. Pierce asked for the return of $75,000 she said she had lent her husband. Pierce lives in New Bedford, Mass.

Spivak Charges Klan Dragon in State Visit

Accuses Boston Man of Tie-Up in Nazi Propaganda

Less than six months ago the "grand dragon" of the Ohio, Illinois and Michigan realm of the Ku Klux Klan was in Massachusetts to distribute Nazi propaganda, it was testified today before the special legislative commission investigating subversive organizations in this state.

John L. Spivak, former European correspondent, whose allegations startled the committee yesterday, made this charge as he resumed the witness stand at the State House hearing.

He accused Edward H. Hunter, secretary of the Industrial Defense Association of Boston, of having a direct "tieup" with J. A. Colescout, who, he said, was grand dragon of the Ohio, Illinois and Michigan realm of the Klan.

His charges yesterday that Hunter was in charge of anti-Catholic and anti-Jewish literature in New England were denied by Hunter.

Just before a temporary adjournment, Hunter asked the committee to be heard. No immediate action was taken on his request.

TELLS OF PAMPHLETS

"He (Colescout) as well as other agents, including Hunter, are tied up directly with paid Nazi propagandists in this country," Spivak declared.

"The Illinois realm of the Klan," he continued, "regularly issued pamphlets against Jews and Catholics and stating that President Roosevelt is controlled by these two groups.

"Colescout himself was in Springfield less than six months ago and brought propaganda literature with him for distribution in this state."

Spivak charged that propaganda sent directly from Germany to the United States reached Hunter for distribution.

He said the propaganda came from the west coast to Boston. He said Nazi agents were told to deliver all materials—propaganda, brown uniforms and money—to the west coast instead of the Atlantic coast as a result of discoveries made in the east by the congressional committee assigned to probe subversive activities.

BOAT LIST FURNISHED

Spivak gave the legislative committee a list of German boats which "carry the propaganda to Los Angeles for distribution in Massachusetts." He also named the captains of those ships but said they were controlled by the Nazi "cell" which has complete authority over the captain.

He said shipments from Germany were made to Herman Schwinn, Nazi agent in Los Angeles, on March 9, February 10, May 12 and June 5 of last year.

Spivak testified that a publication, the "Catholic Gazette," printed by the Pictorial Fascist League of London, was aimed at causing a split between Jews and Catholics "to destroy both."

Pope Pius Again Stricken by Cold

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Oct. 14 (INS)—In spite of extraordinary precautions, Pope Pius has contracted a cold, it was learned authoritatively today.

The 80-year-old pontiff's general condition is "not to good," but he continues working. Persistent cold, damp weather is blamed for the Pope's illness. His return to the Vatican has now been postponed indefinitely.

Queen Mother Keeps Duke In Exile

Copyright, 1937, By International News Service

LONDON, Oct. 14 (INS)—Queen Mother Mary's adamant refusal to receive the Duchess of Windsor as a member of the royal family is the principal cause for the Duke's continued self-exile, it was learned today.

The Queen mother has not yet adjusted herself to the marriage of her eldest son to the attractive American divorcee to the point of being willing to receive her with the same open affection she has shown for her other daughters-in-law.

The Duke is so loyal to the wife for whom he gave up the proudest crown in the world that he will see no one, not even his mother, if he cannot take his Duchess with him.

UP TO QUEEN MOTHER

For this reason, it was disclosed in circles close to the former king, he will extend his exile from England indefinitely unless Queen Mary relents and sends for him to come to her with his wife.

To fill in the time the Windsors are expected to visit many lands. At present they are in Germany and next month they are going to America. But they will stay away from England until all members of the royal family, including the Queen mother, are willing to accept the former Wallis Warfield as one of them.

QUEEN OBEYS CUSTOM

Like the queen mother, Queen Elizabeth has made no overtures to her brother-in-law to visit Buckingham Palace. She is bound by custom to abide by her husband's wishes. George VI maintains brotherly relationship with Windsor and it is believed would receive both Edward and his wife, but the attitude taken by the queen mother makes the situation very delicate.

To relieve the king, to whom he passed the throne, from any embarrassment arising out of this situation, Edward has solved the problem by deciding to stay out of England until his mother changes her mind.

When he abdicated the throne Edward made no promises to stay out of England but only undertook not to do anything which might strain relations between the new king and his people. This undertaking he had rigorously observed.

Windsors Sleep Late After Strenuous Day

BERLIN, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor were late risers today after a strenuous program yesterday and did not leave their hotel until after noon.

Accompanied by guides and secret service guards, they visited the museum, where the celebrated Pergamon altar was the chief attraction.

Bullet Victim's Funeral Planned

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 14—Funeral services were being arranged here today for John W. Fosie, 20, whose body was found in dense undergrowth between Pemigewasset river and the state highway, a bullet hole through his head and a .38-calibre pistol lying at his side.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fosie, the youth was found after an all-day search by local and state police officers.

Film Fame Next Stop

Boston Evening American Photo

When the palatial American Airline plane, the Southerner, flies out of Boston at dusk today, it will carry Helen Hughes on the first leg of her triumphant trip to Hollywood. The winner of the M-G-M talent quest conducted by the Boston Evening American and Loew's State and Orpheum theaters begins to reap rewards for her triumph in an outstanding contest where competition was keen. Her chance in movieland will come soon.

Talent Quest Winner Hops to Film Career

Pretty, golden-haired Helen Hughes, winner in the Boston Evening American-Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Talent Quest, departs for Hollywood tonight for a "Cinderella career" in the movies.

At 6:20 p. m. the Houlton, Me., girl—who only a month ago was a student at a Back Bay dramatic school—will board the American Airlines giant sleeper plane, "The Southerner" at East Boston airport.

Then begins her journey of 3086 miles across states which some day may herald her as a new Hollywood star.

At 11:50 a. m. Friday Miss Hughes will land at Glendale airport in California, where she will be met by officials of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

Her film career begins!

"GOOD LUCK" WISH

At the airport tonight will be classmates of the young Emerson College dramatics pupil and friends who came down from the Pine Tree State to wish her "good luck."

Only yesterday Miss Hughes returned to Boston from Houlton, where she was tendered a "welcome home" fete by the townspeople—her lifelong friends and neighbors.

"We're proud of Helen," they're saying at Houlton today.

And just like the story book Cinderella, Miss Hughes was just another dramatic student among hundreds of other girls in the city. Her thoughts of acting in the movies were confined to dreams.

Then fate stepped in through the opportunity offered in the Talent Quest. She submitted her picture, citing her qualifications.

A screen test, a talkie test and she found herself on the threshold of fame.

Miss Hughes was given a mnoth's contract, with option to renew, and during her four weeks in Hollywood will be given "bit" parts, for which she will receive $75 a week.

EXCITING DAY

To make good in the cinema capital, Helen will have to work hard. But she knows that.

But fame won't change her, she says, and those who know her best say it's true.

And they'll tell you that Helen has intelligence, poise and charm to aid her in making her movie career a success. And she had definite acting ability, they also add.

While the hours today may drag for Miss Hughes, every minute of the day until 6:20 tonight is an exciting one for her.

She's looking forward to the air trip. Accompanying her will be Mrs. E. R. Marsters.

Slav Premier Visits London

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Premier Milan Stoyadinovitch of Yugoslavia came to London today to exchange views with British diplomats on the international situation and to cement financial and economic relations between the two nations.

Mother and 'Dead' Baby Do Well

Very pleased are Dr. Robertson and Nurse Marshall, of Margaret Hague Maternity Hospital, Jersey City, N. J. with the condition of Mrs. Isabel Garry, shown here, who gave birth to baby boy which had been "dead" for fifteen minutes but which, thanks to modern science, is now alive and doing very well. The physician, left and assistant, center, are here pictured as they took Mrs. Garry's blood pressure and found it normal. Since then the youngster, shown at left, has continued to improve until all danger is now past, and the physicians are hailing another triumph of modern medicine. Dr. Arthur B. R. Smith is in photo examining the little fellow.

Coughlin Hits Roosevelt In Article

President Perplexed, Says Priest in New Attack

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (INS)—President Roosevelt is described as a "a sorely perplexed executive" due to the asserted failure of eight administration programs designed to end the depression, Father Charles E. Coughlin's weekly publication, "Social Justice," states in the issue out today.

"The administration has come to the end of its rope," the page one article, written under a Washington, D. C., dateline states, because of the failure of "these eight programs, adopted consecutively in a vain effort to destroy depression and produce prosperity."

EXPLAINS GOING OFF AIR

Another article on page one of the publication refutes the impression Father Coughlin cancelled his scheduled series of broadcasts in a huff because of criticism by his superior, Archbishop James E. Mooney.

CIO leaders in Detroit and Michigan, the article states, twisted a statement by the archbishop into an endorsement of the CIO and its policies, and Father Coughlin, therefore, in view of his published and spoken attacks against the CIO "obviously could not go on the air at this time in seeming contradiction to his lawful church superior."

The administration programs which the article says bogged down are listed as:

CALLS THESE FAILURES

Borrowing $18,000,000,000 from broken banks.

A policy of destruction, destroying cotton and pigs.

A policy of price control, with prices rising every day.

A policy of credit control that failed.

A national dole, exempting the rich with their $60,000,000,000 of tax-exempt bonds and collecting it from the middle classes by invisible taxation.

A Social Security Act that failed to assure.

A public works program with the government acting as contractor.

A policy of CIO-ism, of wage fixing and of super-taxation in order to share the wealth, but which, unfortunately, "only proved to share poverty."

Fugitive Auto Injures Two

Two persons were injured—one seated in a parked car and the other a pedestrian—following a mile and a half police chase of an automobile in Washington street, Quincy, today.

The car, which police charge was doing 60 miles an hour, crashed into a parked auto at Washington and Elm streets.

The auto overturned, injuring Paul Potanica, 43, of Sumner street, Quincy, the occupant, and falling on Miss Edith Sundin, 34, of Edison park, Quincy, who was on the sidewalk.

Both were unconscious when taken by police to Quincy Hospital where they were found to be suffering from multiple contusions and abrasions of the body.

The driver of the allegedly speeding car stopped at the scene of the crash and was allowed to go home. Police said they would seek a complaint charging operating so as to endanger.

How to Make Home Happy

Pastor Gives His 10 'Commandments'

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Reverend Clinton C. Cox, social-minded pastor of the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, made public today ten commandments for a happy home. They are:

1—God first.

2—Join a church and worship regularly.

3—Have blessings at meals and family worship.

4—Be loyal to your family always.

5—Don't air family differences to neighbors; tell God. He understands.

6—Educate yourself for your job. Be the best father or mother possible.

7—Let your family know you love them.

8—Don't be afraid to sacrifice; there is joy in so doing.

9—Talk over all business together; understand one another.

10—Be ready to forgive and always close the day friends.

The decalogue was submitted by a couple the Reverend Mr. Cox married 18 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton. He deemed it the best set of rules compiled in a contest conducted among members of his congregation.

Educator Urges War on Politics

Ex-Mayor Nichols Runs Second in Day's Straw Ballot Return; Foley Third

By FRANK K. REILLY

Former Governor James M. Curley received 2528 ballots out of a total vote of 3618 cast today in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser mayoralty straw poll.

Former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols with 454 votes was second in the daily tabulation. District Attorney William J. Foley was given 306 votes and Alfred Santosuosso's tally today was 205 ballots.

School Committeeman Maurice J. Tobin was credited with 55 votes today and Charles L. Manser, Back Bay Republican candidate, with 52 ballots.

Bringing up the rear were Carleton L. Brett, Social Justice candidate, with seven votes, President John I. Fitzgerald of the Boston City Council with five, and Alonso B. Cook, former State auditor, with two.

TIP-OFF ON HOOD

Ballots arriving today numbered 3618, making the total received by the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser straw poll editors since the beginning of this tabulation 47,475.

As had been indicated by this poll, Otis Archer Hood, Communist candidate, was a weak contender and yesterday he failed to qualify for a place on the ballot, being unable to secure the 3000 signatures of registered voters of the city which the law required must appear on nomination papers of a mayoralty aspirant. In nearly six weeks of straw balloting Hood had received only 31 votes.

TODAY'S STANDING

Standing to date of each of the candidates is:

James M. Curley	18,330
William J. Foley	12,404
Maurice J. Tobin	5732
Malcolm E. Nichols	5000
Alfred Santosuosso	3384
John I. Fitzgerald	1368
Carleton L. Brett	621
Charles L. Manser	322
Alonso B. Cook	75

All readers of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser are invited to participate in this mayoralty straw poll. Accurate and unbiased reports of the progress of the balloting are published daily. Cast your vote for your favorite candidate for mayor of Boston today.

Foes Forged Priests' Names, Cook Charges

and malicious. The listings were taken under the same set-up used over a period of years and under a contract arranged by my predecessor.

OFFICER'S PROMOTION

"I already have promised that any lieutenant who breaks this case and gets a conviction on charges of fraud will be named a captain immediately.

"I also will do all in my power to give a promotion to any man in the ranks who is successful—even to personally pleading his own case before the civil service commission.

"My offer of $1000 will be made good personally to any private citizen who furnishes information which will bring a conviction in the frauds which have been proven to exist in Charlestown."

20 POLICEMEN CALLED

The commissioner met reporters shortly after nearly 20 policemen had been called to a conference with Superintendent Edward W. Fallon and Assistant District Attorney William Sullivan at police heaquarters.

Superintendent Fallon said the meeting was routine but was necessary because the patrolmen were stationed in Charlestown at the time of the listing on January 1, 1937.

Charles Manser, Back Bay Republican candidate for mayor, appeared before the election commission at noon to take formal action against the nomination papers of former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols.

Manser charged that Nichols had on his papers the names of persons now dead and others who were not registered in Boston.

The election commissioner granted his request to take photostatic copies of Nichols' nomination papers and said a hearing will be held if the Back Bay candidate can substantiate his charges.

NAMES DROPPED

The election commission announced dropping the names of the following persons in Charlestown: John W. Daley, Patrick Joyce and John P. Coughlin, all of 64 Lawrence street; James Leary and Joseph W. Murray of 70 Lawrence street; Edward J. Burke and Patrick T. Burke of 68 Lawrence street; Joseph J. Anderson of 167 Rutherford avenue, William T. Jones, Charles Campbell, all of 239 Main street; John C. Leahy and Jeremiah J. Leahy, of 228 Main street, Maurice Jewett, James Duffy and Patrick A. Duffy, all of 202 Main street.

COOK BLAMES FOES

Former State Auditor Alonso B. Cook charged he was the victim of "the most vicious fraud ever perpetrated upon a candidate for public office in Boston," in connection with the names of clergy of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, which fraudulently appeared on his nomination papers.

He added that he had accepted every signature on his papers in good faith and that it had not been his intention to embarrass the clergymen of the South End Church, many of whom have denied signing his nomination papers.

At the same time Cook demanded that Chairman David B. Shaw of the municipal election commission publicly explain why Timothy W. Murphy, campaign manager for former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols was allowed to frequent the office of that body after the close of business last night.

"Isn't it strange that Mr. Murphy, accompanied by commercial photographers, should be admitted to the election commission offices last night wothout protest from the pompous Mr. Shaw of the Election Commission?" Cook said today.

CALLS IT STRANGE

"Isn't it strange that Mr. Murphy, in the matter of a few minutes, should detect 16 alleged forgeries upon my nomination papers when it would require handwriting experts several days to pore through approximately 3000 signatures and produce the same results."

"It must be obvious to any intelligent citizen that some representative of an opponent in some manner came into possession of one of my nomination papers and perpetrated this fraud upon me."

Timothy W. Murphy, former city assessor, acting in behalf of former Mayor Nichols, last night charged that 16 names on Mr. Cook's papers are those of Jesuit priests attached to Immaculate Conception Church in Harrison avenue, South End.

Clergy whose names appear upon the papers have already denied having signed nomination sheets of any candidate for political office. Some of the clergy in question have been absent from Boston since August 31, the date circulation of the papers was begun, it was stated.

Woll Hails Call For Trade by Roosevelt

Wires President His Market Building Plan 'Dazzling'

DENVER, Oct. 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt's call for creation of new domestic markets through increased purchasing power drew praise today from an American Federation of Labor spokesman who earlier this week criticised provisions of the administration's wage-hour bill.

Matthew Woll, A. F. of L. vice president and president of the American wage earners protective conference, telegraphed the President:

"Your declaration for the upbuilding of the American market is magnificent, dazzling in the possibilities it holds forth."

GREEN TO BE REELECTED

The message was sent to President Roosevelt as delegates met in what was scheduled to be the last session of the Federation's 57th annual convention, with election of officers and selection of the 1938 convention city slated this afternoon.

Reelection of President William Green, probably without opposition, was generally accepted as a certainty. Frank Morrison, veteran secretary-treasurer, also was slated for reelection.

The president and secretary, together with 15 vice presidents to be elected, will compromise the federation's executive council, which will meet after the convention ends.

4 CITIES FOR 1938

Although several other cities were mentioned as possible choices, the contest for the 1938 convention apparently centered around bids of Houston, Tex., St. Louis, Chicago, and Birmingham.

Woll also lauded the President for "what you have stated in this talk relative to the greater independence of the American people from foreign sources."

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 14 (AP)—The CIO pledged itself today to support legislation to stabilise farm prices at not less than the cost of production.

Leaders of 32 unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organisation adopted unanimously a resolution which said the CIO "recognizes the community of economic interest between the industrial workers and the farmers."

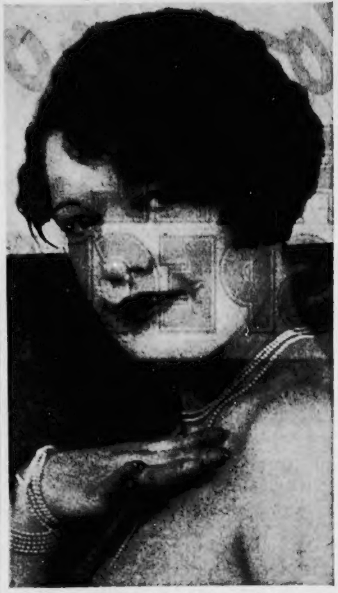
"Farmers and farm workers are entitled to their fair share in the national income and legislation seeking a stabilization of farm prices at not less than the cost of production will have the hearty support of the CIO," the resolution said.

Thieves Pick His Tools for 3 Raids

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 14 (AP)—Blacksmith Phillip Schonert's tools are indispensable to the thieves who have raided Druggist W. H. Woodring's safe three times since April.

So when Woodring reported his vault had been rifled again, police anticipated Schonert's report that a sledgehammer and cold chisel had been stolen from his shop. Each time, the tools were used to knock the combination off the druggist's safe.

Mystery in Death



Family of attractive Mrs. Anna Johnson Brigada, former Back Bay beautician, shown above, who died in New York supposedly of pneumonia, have reason to believe, they state, that she was victim of foul play. Her sister, Mrs. Jessie Kelley of Brockton, is seeing District Attorney Foley today with plea to have the body exhumed and autopsy performed.

Claims Dead Blonde Victim of Foul Play

A freshly-turned grave in St. Michael's Cemetery in Forest Hills may conceal a murder which claimed as its victim blonde Mrs. Anna Johnson Brigada, 32, former Back Bay beautician, her family claimed today.

Saying she suspected a sinister cause in the death of the attractive matron in New York last Friday, her sister, Mrs. Jessie A. Kelley of North Montello street, Brockton, prepared to lay evidence today before District Attorney William J. Foley in support of the suspicion that her sister met an unnatural death.

Bruises on her sister's throat and swelling of certain parts of the body led her to believe there were errors in the issuance of the death certificate by New York authorities, Mrs. Kelley declared.

If the statements Mrs. Kelley says she is prepared to unfold warrant, District Attorney Foley said, the body will be exhumed for an autopsy.

Mrs. Brigada was buried in simple ceremonies Monday at St. Michael's Italian Catholic cemetery in Forest Hills by a Cambridge undertaker.

The papers received from New York were in order, he said, giving pneumonia as the cause of the beauty's death.

Because she was too upset at the time of the funeral, Mrs. Kelley said she waited until later to communicate her fears about her sister's fate to Police Inspector William S. Allen of the Brockton police.

Until three years ago, when Mrs. Brigada became a housewife on her marriage to Frank Brigada, former Somerville and Boston man, she had operated a Back Bay beauty parlor, and once won a Follies beauty contest.

Win Fight to Bar Search for Oil

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14 (INS)—Three thousand residents of a high class residential area in West Los Angeles had won their fight today against oil well drilling in the district.

The city planning commission turned down an oil company's application for a permit to drill when the residents declared it would ruin the district.

Rammed Steamer Is Beached Safely

LE HAVRE, France, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Latvian steamer Vizma, rammed by the French vessel Leon Martin, was beached near here today with a gaping hole in her side. Tugs from Le Havre towed the ship to safety. First reports said none of the crew was injured.

CUT $$ OFF MEAT BILLS and still serve TASTY MEALS

Every housewife knows how meat prices are up. The question is what to do about it. Follow these two rules: Ask for less expensive cuts (just as nutritious) by name. Cook them with Gulden's Mustard. Gulden's is the only prepared mustard perfectly suited for use in cooking. The fine savor of Gulden's quality mustard seeds, spices and vinegars cooks into the meat to deepen and enrich the flavor.

$$ SAVER NO. 14

Short ribs of beef—cheaper than round or chuck. Pot roast in one piece or cut into pieces. For rich delicious flavor, spread with Gulden's before flouring and browning in hot fat.

$$ SAVER NO. 31

Breast of lamb weighs about 1½ lb.—serves two or three, about 10¢ less a lb. than other cuts. Have butcher cut pocket and spread with Gulden's. Stuff with your favorite stuffing. Roast.

$$ SAVER NO. 42

Flank Steak—12¢ a lb. cheaper than round, makes a perfect Swiss Steak. Have butcher score top to cut tendons. Spread with Gulden's then with flour and brown in hot fat. Roast.

Physician Gives Blood to Son

Hollis G. Batchelder, Jr., 20, young Dedham sportsman, was in a serious condition at Faulkner Hospital today after a dramatic hospital scene in which he was given a blood transfusion by his own father, socially-prominent Dedham physician.

Dr. Batchelder rushed from the scene of a fatal accidental shotgun shooting which claimed the life of Radcliff S. Bridgham, 43, of Abbot road, Dedham, to the Dedham Emergency Hospital to find his son there, wounded in a similar accidental shooting.

Together with Wendell LaFreniere and Charles Paspates, both of Dedham, young Batchelder had gone on a duck-hunting trip to Westwood.

Paspates shotgun accidentally fired, sending the discharge through Batchelder's right thigh.

Bridgham, victim of the first accidental shooting, was killed when a gun he was cleaning discharged in his face.

A Million Dollar's Worth of Clothing Style, for $24.50

This is not an idle statement but rather an under statement. For, as a matter of fact, our investment in new Fall fabrics alone runs into several millions of dollars . . . in cash.

Yes, we buy for cash because in the wholesale markets, as well as in the retail stores, a cash buyer pays less and gets more for his money. Our own supreme values prove that.

To return to style, however, our vast collection of woolens, worsteds, cheviots, cassimeres, twists, tweeds and serges includes every weave, pattern and color in the fabric world.

Before you spend $35, $40 or more, come to Richman's. We are sure you will find just the style you want for $24.50 . . . and that includes drapes, sport-backs and all other models, fabrics, textures and patterns.

See our selection now, while it is fresh, complete and at its best. Remember, we have not advanced our price this Fall.

Budget Balance Hope Seen in New Taxes

Cut In U. S. Spending Is Also Needed, Says Adams

The American budget can be balanced only by an increase in taxes, spread over a broader base, and a decrease in government expenditures, Orval W. Adams, newly-elected head of the American Bankers Association, declared at the final meeting of the association at the Majestic Theater today.

Listing the objectives toward which he will direct the association policies, the banker stated he believed it is the duty of the association membership to make all of the people "deficit conscious."

"We must make our depositors realize that the preservation of the value of their savings depends on a balanced budget," he said.

"To balance the budget, two courageous and statesmanship steps must be taken: First, a substantial decrease in government expenditures; second, an increase in taxes more equitably distributed over a much broader base.

"We must make all the people deficit-conscious. The necessity of bringing government expenditures well within current revenue is not yet appreciated by the great body of self-reliant people of America.

"Our depositors must be brought to understand that as government deficits increase, the purchasing power of money decreases."

Adams stated, as a second objective, that the bankers must "stabilize and refine," but not discard, the present banking system.

"Our progress under the dual banking system is a creditable chapter in the development of this country," he said. "We readily concede that it has not functioned perfectly.

"Beyond question, however, our system has so functioned as to warrant us seeking to improve rather than to abandon it, and attempt to provide a new system.

"There must be no monopoly, none in banking, labor, or industry. The instinct of American citizens is unalterably opposed to all three."

Adams said it will be a major endeavor of his administration to mobilize the power of the numerous smaller banks to carry forth the ideals of the association.

He urged the bankers always to "accentuate the professional nature and aspects of their calling."

"If we always uphold the ideals of efficient, unselfish, loyal service to our clients, we shall, in my judgment, pursue the one course which will bring understanding and appreciation," he stated.

Malancha Docks On Maiden Trip

Docking at the Cunard Pier in East Boston today, on her maiden voyage to Boston, is the Malancha of Brocklebank's Cunard service, from Calcutta and Colombo, adding another high grade cargo vessel to this port.

The ship, a geared turbine oil-burner of 5124 gross tonnage, built this year at Port Glasgow on the Clyde, is 493.6 feet over all, 62 feet depth and 34 feet moulded depth, with a draft of 27 feet in salt water.

She made her first departure from London for Calcutta on July 24, leaving there on September 10 via Colombo for Boston. She will remain at this port until Friday, proceeding to New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. She will sail on November 8, to London and Avonmouth. Captain W. A. Ison, formerly of the Manaar of the same company, is in command.

Yehudi Menuhin Spurns Film Offers

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14 (AP)—Yehudi Menuhin, 20-year-old violin prodigy, turned his back today on a screen career. His father, Moshe Menuhin, explained:

"When a concert artist exhibits himself in a film play, it can only be for money."

The young virtuoso reportedly receives from $4000 to $5000 for a concert appearance.

Banks in State To Join Survey

A majority of member banks of Massachusetts Bankers' Association today indicated their desire to be included in a survey of departmental earnings and operating costs of banks, to be sponsored by the association.

The voluntary survey was voted yesterday by the executive council of the association. It will be made during the early months of 1938.

BEPPY WURST FRANCES JACKSON SAMMY HAMILTON

Balance Budget, Bankers Ask

A return to a balanced budget should be the prime objective of sound administration fiscal policy, the resolutions committee of the American Bankers Association today declared in its report to the [illegible] annual convention.

The report was presented by R. V. Fleming, chairman of the resolutions committee and was adopted by the convention.

Concerning government expenditures and budget, the resolution stated:

"From time to time in recent years this association and its officers, have emphasized the importance of this achievement (balancing the budget).

"We now feel the time has come to encourage the steady progress of normal business and industrial enterprise which cannot prosper without the confidence which will be engendered by bringing federal expenditures through economies in line with income."

The resolutions committee went on record urging that "early consideration be given to the overlapping and duplication on the same objects by local, state and federal governments."

CITES BUSINESSMAN

"Such action," the report stated, "would do much to bring about an increase in the normal flow of business activity."

Emphasizing "again our conviction that the number of chartered banks should be limited rigidly to the economic requirements of the nation," the association, through the resolutions committee, opposed the proposed establishment of branch banking across state lines.

The text of the branch banking resolution adopted was:

"We favor the preservation and continuation of the dual banking system by which banks are free to operate under either state or national charter. We also believe that the system of unit banks has been peculiarly adapted to the highly diversified community life of the United States."

"However, many of the states now authorize by the law the operation of branch banks. We believe that national banks should, as they do now, continue to enjoy an equality with state banks of branch banking privileges within those states.

"The association supports in every respect the autonomy of the laws of the separate states with respect to banking. We reiterate our belief that no class of banks in any state should enjoy a greater right in respect to the establishment of branches than banks chartered under state laws.

"We are definitely opposed to any proposal or device looking to the establishment of branch banking privileges across state lines, directly or indirectly."

Col. Ayres Sees Bright Prospects in Banking

Banking has recovered from the depression and is once more profitable, but is not yet "adequately profitable," Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Company, told a meeting of the American Bankers Association at the Majestic Theater today.

He stated that the "emergency period" in banking is now a part of the past, but that the bankers must adjust themselves to new conditions.

Bankers should be optimistic instead of pessimistic, he said, since it is possible now for the general price levels to drop as they did several years ago.

"Probably it is true," he said, "that bankers as a class are still unduly influenced by developments that lie in the past, and that are not al all likely to recur.

PROFIT PROSPECTS BRIGHT

"The pessimistic fear that bankers still cherish is that we may have another banking crisis like the one five years ago.

"That fear explains our passion for liquidity. It is the chief reason for the excess reserves taha we maintain. It is behind our preference for short-term notes, our abhorrence for long-term bonds. It is the reason most bankers are completely reluctant to contemplate borrowing from their Federal Reserve banks."

He stated that this pessimistic fear was not warranted, however, for the prospects for profits in the banking business seem bright.

"Certainly," he said, "they are bribhter than tey are in most other kinds of business.

CUT OPERATING COSTS

"Those prospects are bright because business has handed over to the bankers a huge store of money on which the bankers pay low interest.

"It can be more profitably employed than it is now. How much its yield can be increased with safety depends on three factors.

"The first consists in using dollars more fully by investing the dollars that are now lying idle, in the excess reserves.

"The second lies in reducing the operating costs of the lending and allied departments of banks until their expenses are below the earnings from loans.

"The third lies in securing greater returns from investments."

Illegal Meal Jails Plumber

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 14 (AP)—J. E. Gaughan was in jail today for trying to eat in court. Charged with working as a plumber without a city certificate, he suddenly seized and crammed into his mouth an affidavit used as evidence against him.

Trade Surveys Called Waste By Expert

Dr. V. Jordan Lists Them of Slight Business Value

Most of the business surveys published as "economic research" are vast wastes of human energy, Dr. Virgil Jordan, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, declared at a meeting of the American Bankers Association today.

"Well-meaning people are prone to imagine that research in the economic field is an activity that is good for its own sake," he said.

"The result of this mistaken notion is that much economic and business research today means only the production or reproduction of huge quantities of statistical statements and tabulations the source, significance and use of which is uncertain, indefinite, undiscoverable or imaginary.

"The so-called 'surveys,' which result from this sort of research activity are a characteristic disease of our time.

"The endless rehashing of stale or reclaimed statistics in the name of research is the consequence chiefly of two conditions.

"One is that the public—American, particularly—has somehow become subject to the superstition that anything which is stated in figures must be more accurate, true and significant than it would be otherwise, especially if the state is the source of the statistics.

"Another circumstance conducive to stimulation of the second-hand statistics trade is the unfortunate fact that our academic educators are often so poorly paid and so incompletely occupied in teaching that they are driven to this sort of sterile activity to supplement their meagre incomes in their spare time, whenever the benefactions of the economic royalists of yesteryear make funds available which the tax gatherer would otherwise take and the government would waste in the same way, anyhow.

"It is unfortunate that so much meaningless and useless activity should be carried on in the name of research, because it makes more difficult the understanding and effective use of the results."

Student Aid Group Founders Praised

Commend Ideals of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst At Opening of New York Congress

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Pledging themselves to carry out the ideals of the founder, 600 delegates to the 41st annual convention of the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers are formulating plans today for the coming year.

Opening the second day's session of the four day conference at the Waldorf-Astoria, Mrs. Philip S. Wakeley, state chairman of Founders' day, said:

"To our National Founders, Mrs. Theodore W. Birney and Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst and those associated with them in the pioneer days, we owe a deep debt of gratitude which can best be paid by carrying out their ideals and by accomplishing their cherished plans. They blazed the trail; they held aloft the light for us to follow. Because of them the state and nation have become more child conscious."

In memory of Mrs. Birney and Mrs. Hearst the New York group dedicated itself to sponsor better housing, better education, health and happiness, and love of country among children.

Adding to a program of parent and school education, legislation, health and juvenile protection, music, library, recreation and motion picture projects, the convention will work on an international relations project to promote peace.

The new project was suggested in a report of Dr. A. E. Champlin, director of the State School of Agriculture at Cobleskill, read to the gathering. It recommended each unit have at least one program a year to bring about better understanding with other countries.

Family Shuns Consul Killer

Watertown Father Seeks Details

Meguerdich Karalan, confessed assassin of United States Consul-General James Theodore Marriner at Beurit, Syria, has by his act estranged himself from his family in Boston.

"Why should we help him now," asked Leo Karalan, brother of the accused Syrian, who formerly lived with his brother, a sister and father on Shawmut avenue and later in Dudley street in Roxbury.

"He shouldn't have done what he did," asserted Leo, a recent M. I. T. graduate, now working for a chemical company.

The family now lives in Poplar street in Watertown.

John Karalan, the father, operator of a lunchroom on Massachusetts avenue, today sought to obtain more detailed information about the slaying, although he, too, indicated that Meguerdich can expect little sympathy from his family here.

Robin Hood Star A Bit Too Real

CHICO, Cal., Oct. 14 (INS)—Errol Flynn, adventuresome screen star here on location for "The Adventures of Robin Hood," played the title role away from the camera and was forced to post $25 bail for having pheasants in his possession, Game Warden E. O. Wraith admitted today.

Doherty Meets King Leopold

BRUSSELS, Oct. 14 (AP)—National Commander Daniel J. Doherty of the American Legion, accompanied by Ambassador Hugh Gibson, was received today by King Leopold III.

Commander Doherty and a group of American Legionnaires were welcomed on their arrival by high Belgian army officers and then marched to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the royal crypt at Laeken, where they laid wreaths.

The King also received former Ambassador Dave Hennen Morris and Mrs. Morris prior to their departure from Belgium. Morris recently resigned his post here.

In a half-hour audience, the King bestowed the Order of the Crown on Mrs. Morris, a distinction rarely given women.

Minister Faces Girls' Charges

SALEM, Ill., Oct. 14 (INS)—The Rev. J. K. Aichele, 43, superintendent of the Hudelson Orphans' Home, was held for the grand jury in $18,000 bail today on charges of improper relations with five girl wards.

Five of nine girls questioned by State's Attorney Ward Holt signed complaints against the minister, who is married and the father of a daughter. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Frank Roll, the Rev. Aichele pleaded not guilty this afternoon.

Block Says Black Unfit for Bench

Special to Boston Evening American

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14—Paul Block, noted Eastern newspaper publisher who uncovered the sensational proof of Justice Hugo L. Black's membership in the Ku Klux Klan, was in San Francisco today on a business trip.

The publisher declared Black's recent radio talk on his return from Europe was nothing short of a "confession" of his affiliation with the hooded order. He pronounced him unfit to serve on the Supreme Court bench.

Discussing national trends, Block predicted that the federal government's huge spending policy is bringing the country toward another major depression.

He expressed himself strongly in favor of the Republican meeting which former President Hoover and other leaders plan to call next spring, and said he expected an "affirmative program" to come out of the conference.

On the famous klan disclosures, which were brought to light by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, one of his string of important papers, Block said:

"I have never before seen anything upon which the newspapers of this country are so unanimous as they are that Black should not serve as a justice of the Supreme Court.

"Even the more radical and pro-Roosevelt papers, which favored the kind of court the President wanted to create, had first page editorials demanding that Black resign. This must be the expression of the people, because papers usually feel the public pulse."

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS)—Fiorello H. LaGuardia is a 13 to 5 favorite to be re-elected mayor of New York City, according to odds posted in Wall Street today.

26 More Victims In Red Purge

MOSCOW, Oct. 14 (INS)—The Soviet cleanup of "People's Enemies" today consigned 26 additional victims to firing squads.

Two of those executed were stated to have confessed participating in a plot that killed 200 Red army soldiers. They were among six persons put to death at Tashkent, capital of the Central Asian Soviet Republic of Uzbek.

All were formally charged with sabotaging Soviet agriculture and "disseminating Nationalist propaganda" for the secession of Uzbeck from the U. S. S. R.

A military court in Soviet white Russia sent five formerly high-ranking officials of that republic's agriculture commissariat to the executioners.

Tinkham Hits Hull, Roosevelt on Arms

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—A suggestion that Congress consider impeachment of President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull for their failure to invoke the neutrality act in the Sino-Japanese war came today from Representative Tinkham (R.) of Massachusetts.

Tinkham, who is touring Europe, made public here a cablegram he sent Hull from Geneva, Switzerland, on October 11, accusing the Secretary of State and the President of having "torn to shreds" the neutrality law and of having "nullified the will of Congress."

The State Department declined comment on the message.

Tinkham's message to Hull declared:

"The Neutrality Act with its mandatory provisions is law. It is the expressed will of Congress by an overwhelming vote. The President and you have torn to shreds this law and wholly nullified the will of Congress in reference to the war in China.

"He and you have defied the law and the Congress. Congress upon reassembling should seriously consider the impeachment of the President and yourself for high crime and misdemeanor."

In Europe, Tinkham's cable continues, there are "two antagonistic political groups of ambitious and selfish nations." One he described as the London-Paris-Moscow group or axis, the other as the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo group.

"London is allied with Paris and Paris allied with Moscow," he said. "Berlin is allied with Rome and Tokyo. It is national suicide for the United States to have political commitments, or entanglements, with either group, or axis.

"Upon this same political committee sits Litvinoff, the political representative of the homicidal Communistic terrorists of Russia. The Congress will never permit you or the President to make the United States the puppet state of Great Britain or the ally and political assistant of Communistic Russia."

Simultaneously, six peace organizations issued a statement in Washington criticizing President Roosevelt's remarks on foreign policy in his fireside chat last night.

"The President has done nothing to correct the hypocrisy of an appeal for the observance of international law by a government which refuses to carry out its own laws," the statement said. "If the President wants to 'reach' successfully for peace, he should stand on the firm basis of obedience to law by application of the Neutrality Act."

The six organizations are the National Council for Prevention of War, World Peaceways, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Fellowship of Reconciliation, Emergency Peace Campaign, and Committee of Militarism

Air Bombs Kill And Wound 91 In Madrid

City In Terror; Rebels Occupy Three More Loyalist Towns

MADRID, Oct. 14 (AP)—Insurgent artillery killed or wounded 91 persons in a destructive bombardment last night of this beleaged city, once the proud capital of Spain.

The number of casualties was given out in an official government report after a night of terror in which 700 shells blasted the heart of the city.

Four of the shells hit Madrid's skyscraper—the telephone building—which since the civil war started has been struck 136 times.

Casualties were heavy on the Gran Via, where one shell exploded close to a crowd leaving a theater.

The government said 30 persons had been killed and 70 injured during an insurgent airplane bombardment of Campo de Casa, in Asturias province, northwest Spain. Many others were reported killed in nearby Infiesto, where 100 houses were destroyed. The government said the insurgents had occupied three towns on the northern Asturian front, and farther south had advanced to Tenarrubis.

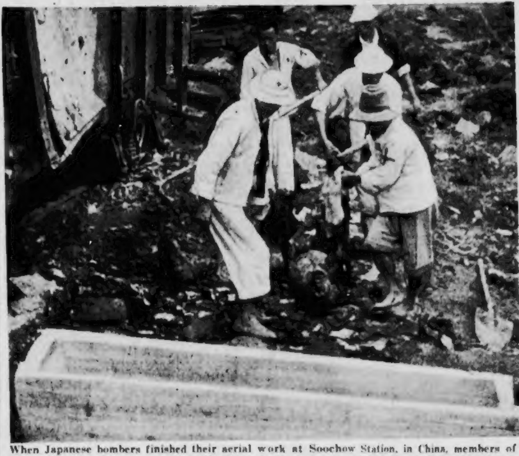
War Feasts on Fugitives



When Japanese bombers finished their aerial work at Soochow Station, in China, members of the Chinese sanitary corps took bodies from bomb-torn cars. Hundreds of Chinese hurried to freight cars when warned of oncoming Japanese bombers. Their faith in the safety of the cars was over estimated. Scores were killed. One Chinese soldier approached a death box in which he was soon buried. This picture is part of the current release of the Day Newsreel, supplied by International News Photograph Service.

Pope Aids Japs' War on China

China's comprehending the precepts of Japanese civilization and divesting herself, especially in certain districts, of ferocious Mongolian influence.

COLLABORATE WITH JAPS

"To point out that China's vastness, provided the people rediscover the standards of their ancient civilization, will tend to permit gradual absorption of Japanese influence.

"Wherever Bolshevist danger appears active, to support, without reserve, Japanese action.

"To give Japanese military authorities the clear impression, that on the part of the Catholic Church, there is no obstacle to complete collaboration."

Missionaries also, the Vatican source said, have been instructed not to repeat and not to associate themselves in any propaganda against the United States or Great Britain, but to combat such propaganda by emphasizing the protection given religious freedom in those countries.

NOT INTERVENTION

This Vatican source summed up the church's policy as follows:

"It abstains from every sort of intervention between parties at war, since all men whom war massacres are dear to its heart, and since it hopes soon to see a reconciliation.

"But it takes care not to hamper in any way the swift activity of the Japanese army, which, even though it may aspire to final hegemony in China, has the immediate concern of obstructing any Bolshevist design."

Vatican sources said the Holy See views China as the "region in all the world most immediately and most easily exposed to Bolshevist invasion."

Pope Pius for years, and recently, has pronounced against Communist influence throughout the world. In two encyclicals this year, on March 18 and on Sept. 29, he condemned what he held to be atheistic communism as a false doctrine undermining the foundations of society.

ASSAILS RED DOCTRINES

In the March encyclical, the Pontiff urged that all differences be submerged so that Catholic and non-Catholic, church and state, might be arrayed to defend its institutions.

The Pope then assailed the theoreticians of Communism as inimical to mankind and declared, "the bitter fruit of subversive ideas which we foresaw and foretold," were multiplying.

In the September encyclical, the pontiff issued what was construed as a double-edged attack on Communist Russia and Nazi Germany. It urged the Roman Catholic faithful to pray against the evils of Communism and the tendency of some state leaders who war against Communism to "exhume pagan errors and morals."

WARNS OF RED PERIL

The Pontiff asserted then:

"The dangers which threaten are no less grave than in the past: The world is observed to be in a moral and spiritual crisis due to forgetfulness of God; deep dissensions rend the classes of society; on the one hand Communism rears itself in denial even of all right to private property; on the other, the cult of a state and the desire restore order and public authority against the intrigues of Communism, leads men to forget the wisrom of the gospel and to exhume pagan errors and morals.

"A wave of atheism sweeps over the world and threatens destruction of all civilization."

Marshal Maher Goes Under Knife

Deputy United States Marshal Joseph M. Maher, member of the city council in Waltham, was successfully operated on for gland trouble in the New England Deaconess Hospital today. He was reported doing well.

Maher, who has been in the hospital since October 3, also successfully conducted his campaign for renomination to the city council in Waltham while waiting for the operation. He was notified of his renomination this afternoon.

U. S. Marines Wounded by Jap Shell

Scores of Civilians in Shanghai Victims in Terrific Battle

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1937)

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14—Killing and wounding upwards of 50 men, women and children in the International Settlement, Japanese and Chinese batteries turned Shanghai into something resembling a sector of the World War's western front tonight.

One American sailor and a U. S. marine were known to have been wounded, and half a dozen marines suffered injuries ranging from shock and concussion to possibly more serious wounds as deadly missiles rocketed into the Settlement from all quarters of the compass.

J. P. McMichael of Connersville, Ind., radido operator aboard the United States flagship Augusta, was slightly wounded in the left temple while watching hostilities from the cruiser's bridge.

JUST MISSES ADMIRAL

Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the Asiatic fleet, narrowly escaped being hit by the same shell fragment that struck McMichael.

Private Milton Hiatt of the Fourth Regiment of Marines, who comes from Crystal River, Florida, was wounded in the left shoulder by a stray rifle bullet while on duty at a sandbagged redoubt in the American defense sector. He was taken to a hospital.

Artillery duels between Chinese and Japanese batteries previously had been confined to a single area. But tonight thousands of shells, bombs, anti-aircraft missiles and machine-gun bullets screamed back and forth across the Settlement, showering the International area with a hail of shrapnel.

To aggravate the carnage, a score of Japanese aircraft virtually went berserk, circling over the city for 12 hours and blasting a ring of destruction around the International Settlement.

U. S. SECTOR BOMBED

Once they approached too close to the foreign area and dropped six bombs in the American sector, demolishing a street car, killing 10 Chinese and wounding 15 others.

Other bombs dropped into Soochow creek, near the Garden bridge, blowing an undetermined number of junks and their hapless crews to eternity. Another huge bomb struck a standing passenger train on the Shanghai-Hangchow railway some distance from the city, killing 40 refugees.

Buildings along the International Settlement Bund rocked with the incessant shell and bomb explosions. During the artillery barrage, a lone Chinese raider flew over the Whangpoo river. In a second, the entire sky was lit by a score of Japanese search lights.

Every Japanese warship in the Whangpoo opened fire with all their guns, stabbing the heavens with incandescent tracers and crimson shrapnel.

During the battle, Chinese shells struck the swank Astor House in Japanese territory and the dome of the Japanese consulate. Scores of factories and warehouses along the river front were set ablaze.

The American Marines were endangered when bomb splinters showered two of their outposts situated along Soochow creek. A Japanese bomb which struck nearby hurled fragments in all directions.

The fragment that struck McMichael aboard the Augusta was part of a Japanese cross-barrage aimed at Chinese positions in Pootung.

Officers dispatched to Japanese headquarters by Admiral Yarnell with a sharp protest received an apology and assurances the Japanese gunners henceforth would be more careful.

London Sees Threat In Stream of Troops Into Libya

By KINGSBURY SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 14—Given a time limit of two weeks by Great Britain and France to effect withdrawal of his "volunteers" from Spain under direction of the non-intervention committee, Premier Mussolini rushed reinforcements to his Mediterranean strongholds in northern Africa today.

As each boat-load of infantry, artillery, machine-gun and air force units steamed out of Italian ports, pessimism over an early satisfactory solution of the Mediterranean crisis grew.

In Paris, French cabinet officials, while agreeing to give the non-intervention committee one last chance to oust Italian volunteers, predicted a grave showdown was only a matter of days, and cited reports that fresh Italian detachments are constantly flowing into Spain.

Possibility of Italian occupation of the island of Minorca in the Balearics was not overlooked, and European statesmen recalled recent reports that Mussolini is "cocking his pistol" at French Morocco as they read of the Italian troop movements.

During the last two weeks Mussolini has rushed more than 30,000 men to Libya, his North African colony, for the admitted purposes of strengthening the garrisons at Tripoli and Benghazi.

Tripoli is on the Mediterranean, within striking distance of the Balearics and the Spanish coast. There have been repeated reports that thousands of the troops sent to Libya are being diverted back across the Mediterranean for service in Spain.

New York's drinking water is of exceptionally high quality. Yet every drop used in Ruppert beer is filtered three times through sand and charcoal, the most reliable and expensive method known to science.

The air in all production departments is constantly filtered and dried. Not a speck of foreign matter can enter. Brewing kettles and utensils are shining and spotless. Every bit of apparatus touched by the brew is sterilized and rigorously inspected.

Ruppert beer is aged in huge glass-lined tanks, sanitary and immaculately white. Then it goes to the filling department, where steam sterilization of all containers gives the final assurance of Ruppert purity. No wonder Ruppert's famous balanced flavor is so uniform, wholesome and delicious!

Knox Only Mayor Voters Eliminate

Five Others Successful In Primaries; Lyons Given Big Lead

Final returns from ten cities early today showed that Mayor Leslie E. Knox of Somerville was the only one of six candidates seeking re-election to be swept from office. It was the outstanding upset of yesterday's primaries.

On the official results, tabulated today, John W. Lynch, former president of the Somerville board of aldermen, who was defeated last election by 250 votes by Knox, led the primary vote with more than 2000 more ballots than Representative Philip Sherman, second nominee. Former Mayor James E. Hagan led Mayor Knox by almost 350 votes.

The official votes showed Lynch 9556 votes, Sherman 7226, Hagan 6[illegible], Knox 6432 and John G. Niles, Somerville dentist running on a "clean out the politicians" platform, in fifth place with 613 votes.

LYONS FAR IN FRONT

In Cambridge and Medford incumbent Mayors John D. Lynch and John J. Irwin were renominated but dropped back into runner-up positions.

John W. Lyons, former president of the Cambridge city council, defeated by Lynch two years ago by a scant 200 votes, turned the tables with a plurality of 3238 votes over Mayor Lynch.

Senator Arthur Blanchard and William S. West, an attorney, trailed in third and fourth places, far behind the two nominees.

At Medford, which had seen one of the most active primary battles in recent years, Alderman John C. Carr led incumbent Mayor John J. Irwin by scarcely 100 votes.

Carr polled 5621 votes to Irwin's 553[illegible]. Third man in the mayoralty fight at Medford was Ralph W. Watson with 3415 votes.

In all other primary elections mayors seeking re-election led their respective races at Everett, Lynn, Springfield and Westfield. More than 200,000 votes turned out on the strength of aroused public interest in the elections and good weather on the polling day.

In Somerville's non-partisan election, 30,605 of the 44,627 registered voters went to the polls.

LOSES OWN WARD

Mayor Knox carried only two of the city's precincts, losing his ward 7 to Representative Sherman, who also carried ward 6.

Lynch carried wards 1, 3, 4 and 5 and former Mayor Hagan won the lead in his home ward 2.

Eight candidates nominated in the alderman-at-large race were: Alderman John F. Foster, 10,416 votes; Alderman Irving L. Stackpole, 71[illegible]; Alderman George W. Pratt, 5598; former Alderman Francis J. Greeley, 4209; Ward 2 Alderman Timothy J. Cronin, running at large, 4169; Alderman John E. Whitney, 3987; William T. Wright, 37[illegible], and Edward F. Moynihan, 37[illegible].

Mary E. Wholey, the only woman candidate, failed to place in the first eight with 2394 votes.

All 10 incumbent aldermen seeking re-election were re-nominated with five winning in the ward aldermen races.

Ward aldermen nominated are:

SOMERVILLE

Ward 1, Alderman Walter J. Moran and John M. Grattan. Ward 2, Thomas J. Doyle and George J. Moran. Ward 3, William J. Mee[illegible] and Alderman Francis A. Darling. Ward 4, Leo B. Hassan and Edmund V. Mahoney.

Ward 5, Alderman John L. Carroll and James M. Redmond. Ward 6, Alderman Alan Roy Kingston and Waldo P. Elliott. Ward 7, Alderman Edward A. Rose and Ralph L. Garrett.

In the School Committee race one candidate was unopposed, four had no primary contests.

In Ward 3, Richard M. McCarthy, seeking re-election, and Alfred B. Wass, and in Ward 4, Dr. Edith L. Hurd, seeking re-election, and William A. McDermott, were nominated.

CAMBRIDGE

Francis J. Roche, candidate for mayor last election and a former councillor-at-large, led the council at-large race with 11,658 votes in a field of 48 candidates.

Others nominated were Councilman Hyman Pill, 10,732; Councilman Thomas F. Gibson, 10,120; Councilman John J. Toomey, 7922, all seeking re-election, and William H. Hagan Jr. 6[illegible]; Dane P. C[illegible], 5[illegible]; A[illegible] 2[illegible], and Robert H. "Bibber" McCoy, the wrestler, 2[illegible].

W[illegible] ward [illegible] were:

Ward 1[illegible], Councilman [illegible] J[illegible]nes and W[illegible] H[illegible], and Ward 11, Councilman Jeremiah J. Sullivan and John L. Albert[illegible].

CARVER TOPS TICKET

The eight nominees in the school committee race were John J. Carver, former Harvard athlete, 1[illegible]615; Mrs. Jessie W. Brooks, veteran of 17 years on the committee, 11,345; James J. Fitzgerald, 11,[illegible]; R[illegible] A. W[illegible] [illegible] candidate for [illegible]; [illegible] J. McCrehan, [illegible] College baseball [illegible], and Mrs. [illegible] B[illegible].

James J. Casey, for 20 years Cambridge assessor, received 1[illegible],042 votes but say 3,03[illegible] votes go to his opponent, Charles T[illegible].

LYNN

Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn, seeking re-election to his fifth consecutive term, amassed a total of 11,229 votes, as the second candidate to enter the run-off election, William E. Sexton, a fireman, received 1492 votes.

Arthur J. Hewis, Jr., the third candidate, was eliminated, with 944 votes.

MEDFORD

In Medford's battle for the mayoralty nomination, Alderman John Carr led the field with [illegible] votes. Mayor John J. Irwin, seeking re-election, was close behind with 5539 votes.

In the contest for alderman-at-large the following were nominated:

Ward 1, [illegible] Harrington and Walter J. Hunt. Ward 2, James [illegible] Ma[illegible] and [illegible]. Ward 3, [illegible] Edward F. Allen and [illegible] J. M[illegible]. Ward 4, Charles Cough[illegible] and James W. F[illegible]. Ward 5, James P. H[illegible] and [illegible]. Ward 6, Walter F. Lawrence and M[illegible] E. O'Brien. Ward 7, [illegible].

For school committee at large, Mrs. [illegible] J. [illegible] and F[illegible] Davi[illegible], Mrs. Alice G. [illegible], Edwin M. Hata[illegible], Fred T. McDermott and Carrie E. S[illegible]. For Ward 7, William F. [illegible] and Mrs. Agnes T. McCarthy.

For ward aldermen: Ward 1, J. Joseph Ga[illegible], Maxwe[illegible], Inman, J[illegible] McCarthy and M[illegible] F. Saer[illegible]. Ward 2, [illegible] Mack[illegible]n, Edward A. J. [illegible]. W[illegible] F. Shute and [illegible] E. W[illegible]. Ward [illegible] J[illegible] Edward H. [illegible] and James G. Tate and James P. McCa[illegible].

Ward [illegible] A. Cat[illegible] Carl A. F[illegible], [illegible] W. O'Brien and Philip Or[illegible]. Ward 8, Fred E. Bea[illegible], John M. Dr[illegible], Radley B. H[illegible] and [illegible] L. Ward.

EVERETT

Mayor Frank E. Lewis ran far ahead of the field of four [illegible] the mayoralty race with [illegible]. Se[illegible] [illegible] Alfred B. M[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] N[illegible].

The [illegible] polled 7424 votes as against [illegible]. Ex-Mayor James A. Roche was a poor third with 1405, while John F. Cahill finished last, with 998.

Successful nominees for aldermen-at-large were George W. Brickley and Michael A. O'Gara. There was no contest for alderman in Ward 1. Nominated in other wards were:

Ward 2, J. Arthur Burke and Myles E. Hughes. Ward 3, Leo T. Pierce and Lawrence T. [illegible]. Ward 4, Daniel F. F[illegible] and Joseph F. Mackey. Ward 5, [illegible] Savage and Guy Tashetta. Ward 6, Edgard M. H[illegible] and John J. J[illegible].

Nominated for school committee were: Gustav F. Braun, John F. [illegible], George H. [illegible], [illegible] L. Ga[illegible], Edward W. B[illegible] and Charles E. H[illegible].

SPRINGFIELD

At Springfield, Republican Mayor Henry Martens appeared to have won renomination with 2753 votes but trailed his Democratic opponent, Roger L. Putnam, who led the mayoralty primary with 4488 votes.

Defeated candidates were Dr. William A. R. Chapin, R., 2464 votes; Dr. James A. Redden, D., 2024; Robert W. Berry, R., 1893, and Philip V. Erard, R., 1717.

WALTHAM

In an early count in the Waltham mayoralty election, Arthur H. Hansen with 3114 votes, led John H. Walsh, former American Legion commander with 2788 votes. Arthur P. Trainor trailed with 380 ballots.

WESTFIELD

A [redacted] Mrs. Alice D. Burke, former school committee member, went into the run-off with Mayor Raymond H. Cowing of Westfield with an opportunity to become Massachusetts' first woman mayor.

Cowing received 2325 votes, Mrs. Burke 1121 votes in a non-partisan primary. She won a scant lead over Councilman George H. Clark.

GARDNER

Stanford H. Hartshorn, president of the City Council, and former Councillor Fred E. Perry were the [illegible] mayor's chair, vacated by Mayor James A. Timpany. Hartshorn with 1765 polled five more votes than Perry, with 1760.

PITTSFIELD

Attorney James Fa[illegible]on piled up an impressive lead at Pittsfield with 5937 votes to 2529 for his nearest [illegible] field of four candidates for mayor. Mayor Allen H. Bragg is retiring there after six terms.

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

(Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

Inasmuch as his chief purpose in coming to the United States this winter is the study of housing conditions, we think the Duke of Windsor is exercising rare judgment in picking Palm Beach for a long visit. We know of no other place in this country where the housing conditions are more interesting.

Damon Runyan

We have heard it reported that the duke, and his duchess, are to be guests of various inmates of Palm Beach, and the housing conditions of any one of those mentioned as potential hosts will alone give the duke ample opportunity for study.

Indeed, there is some doubt that after a complete study of the housing conditions of any one of those nominated by rumor as his host the duke will have any time left for a study of other housing conditions in the Palm Beach settlement, unless he brings along a motorcycle.

It is said that only four householders in Palm Beach enjoy the comfort of less than ten bedrooms. The others there live under the burden of thirty, or more, and they all agree that these housing conditions are pretty terrible, especially when the house guests commence dropping in and using the monogrammed guest towels to polish their shoes.

However, the very nature of the housing conditions in Palm Beach make house guests more or less of a necessity. It would be bad on the nerves of the householders to live among all those bedrooms without seeing a human countenance now and then.

SOME GET LOST

Aside from the use of the guest towels as shoe rags, the chief drawback to the house guests under the housing conditions in Palm Beach is finding them when it is time to close a place up and leave it to the termites.

It is said that at least half a dozen house guests are lost in the houses in Palm Beach every season and while they always eventually come to light again, usually in the wine pantry, their absence sometimes gives rise to embarrassing rumors that they may have been chucked into the ocean by irate householders.

Down in Palm Beach you often hear the story of the sad fate that befell the mining magnate who once attempted to live under the housing conditions there. He had a twenty bedroom shack, which is not as large as others, but which [illegible] some twelve servants who slept and ate on the premises.

INSANITY IS END

The [illegible] that he had not been [illegible] we [illegible] the night he [illegible] picked up a check for dinner for six in the Los Angeles [illegible]. He took to brooding on all those people eating [illegible] three meals per day, seven days per week.

His dreams were disturbed by strange noises as of champing jaws.

He had visions of big T-bones and [illegible] and veal chops and loaves of bread and gobs of macaroni and pots of soup and slices of pie disappearing in a bottomless pit. He finally went nuts as the saying is, a victim of the Palm Beach housing conditions.

We do not suppose that the Duke of Windsor will attempt to do anything to remedy the housing conditions at Palm Beach, though the thought suggests a possible job for him, at that. He could make a nice living down there if he could devise a method of shrinking the houses.

Still, it would not be a good idea to attempt that while the duke and his duchess are in Palm Beach this coming winter.

It is our guess that their presence there will fill all the available rooms in the town, and to tell the truth, we are advised that householders are already commencing to lay in fresh supplies of monogrammed guest towels to take care of their house guests' shoes.

Ladderman Gerald L. Cronin of Ladder 28, Hyde Park; Lieutenant Michael J. McGonigle of Engine 49, Neponset, and Deputy Chief William F. Quigley of Division 2 were given personal commendations.

Roosevelt Mother Sued for $100,000

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP)—A damage suit for $100,000 against Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, and her chauffeur, Louis E. Depew, was on file in Supreme Court today.

The plaintiff, Frederick Grewen, formerly a glove dealer, alleged that he incurred a leg fracture when struck by Mrs. Roosevelt's car in New York, April 3, 1937. Mrs. Roosevelt was not in the car, said Thomas J. O'Neill, attorney for Grewen.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, [illegible]

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

THIS IS LIFE

By

Robert E. Rogers

It was a sad oversight, I fear, which allowed me to forget that Monday last was the anniversary of the death of Casimir Pulaski, who fell on the redoubts of Savannah on October 11, 1779. There will be a greater observance, I suppose, two years from now. But even this year there is so much public interest in the event that its omission [illegible] was unfortunate.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

He was a Polish patriot and soldier who was born in Poland in 1748. During the uprising against Russia in 1768-72, known in history as the Confederation of the Bar, young Casimir and his father Joseph led the Catholic rebels. Before the suppression of the insurrection, one of those many suppressions that embittered the lives of the eighteenth century and early nineteenth century Poles, the son had become commander-in-chief of the insurrection.

Bravery and Skill Seen at Brandywine

Exiled in 1772 he went to America, where in 1777 he joined the Continental Army. He soon showed his bravery and skill, particularly at the battle of Brandywine. He was appointed a brigadier general. With the consent of the Congress he organized Pulaski's Legion, an independent body of cavalry and light infantry. With this he defended Charleston in 1779. The same year, in an attack on Savannah, he was mortally wounded. He had barely passed his thirtieth year.

That is the saga, short, simple, and heroic, of the man who is particularly remembered this month. He was only one of several men who gained immortality by fighting in the cause of democratic liberty in a strange country, where liberty, if not more ardent was more successful than it had been at home.

Paderewski Flame Fans Poland's Faith

The various partitions of Poland, by which the proud kingdom successively lost its territories and integrity, to Russia, Austria and Prussia, left Poland a bleeding remnant of a nation—from the latter part of the eighteenth century until the peace after the World War, not so much a geographical expression, even, as a memory and a faith. In the time of Chopin that faith smouldered. In the time of Paderewski it burst into flame, until once more the Republic of Poland was constituted, crippled, imperfect, but once again Poland.

Casimir Pulaski was a martyr to the Revolution. His fellow-countryman, Kosciusko, was more fortunate. He lived until 1817. He had gained Jeffersonian ideas and not long after the close of our war he led brilliantly the nationalist movement at Krakow and Warsaw, until he was captured and his cause was lost.

He was long a prisoner in Russia. Perhaps his career was not more fortunate, after all. He lived to be older, more disappointed, while his younger compatriot died youthfully and heroically in a cause which was fated to triumph.

Perhaps his fellows, Lafayette and Rochambeau, would have preferred his death to the long series of ups and downs they were to suffer in Europe.

Longfellow's Poem Recalls Patriotism

When I was a boy I was always considerably moved by the poem written by Longfellow commemorating the consecration of Pulaski's banner by the Moravian Nuns at Bethlehem. I do not remember when he wrote, but I suspect that it was when he was a young man, when the Revolutionary War was still an ardent memory to Americans of a not so later generation. The Hymn, as Longfellow named it, is subdued and tragic in mood, touched with sadness and foreboding. It gives an ineffable picture of gloom and twilight, lighted by religion and patriotism, centering round the young and heroic soul who was so soon to die.

We of today are hardly capable of visualizing what the "American Dream" meant to the youths who had sought liberty in Poland or France or even England, and, failing to find it, had crossed the water to a new world, there to die for it—some of them—or to use the lessons gained in that war to prosecute the dream of Liberty still farther, during the French Revolution, the Polish rebellions, and into the new age.

Nevertheless, such an anniversary as this reminds us that in our beginnings we were aided greatly by these young men. Later we were able to help, in turn, some of their countries. It is sweet and fitting to die for one's country. For Pulaski it seemed sweet and fitting to die for another country that cherished the same ideal.

5000 Line Way In Homage to Sally Hurley

Officials in Farewell To Governor's Daughter

Eight-year-old Sally Hurley, daughter of Governor and Mrs. Charles F. Hurley, was given a touching farewell today at funeral services in Watertown.

More than 5000 persons jammed the [illegible] through which the funeral procession passed from the [illegible] Sacred Heart [illegible] Mt. Auburn [illegible] Watertown [illegible].

[illegible] of the [illegible] were [illegible] respects.

Flags at the State House fluttered at half mast for the plucky eight-year-old child who died Monday night after a year's illness with a complication of diseases.

TROOPERS LED CORTEGE

Traffic in the vicinity of the Governor's home was [illegible] while 14 state troopers on motorcycles [illegible] O'Leary led the cortege.

The men and women in the street, neighbors [illegible] elbow to elbow with bowed heads as the white casket was carried out of the Hurley home.

Dressed [illegible] with faces drawn and pale, Governor and Mrs. Hurley walked [illegible] behind. At their side was the eldest [illegible] daughter, Betty. The chief executive and his wife [illegible].

From a bedroom window [illegible] brother and sister watched, Charles F. Jr. and Nancy [illegible].

And Nancy waved a last goodbye as the casket disappeared from sight.

Cambridge, Watertown and Metropolitan police were [illegible] the procession detail to the church.

In the crowded church, jammed to the doors by more than [illegible] persons, a low mass of requiem was celebrated by Bishop Francis J. Spellman, assisted by Msgr. Augustine F. Hickey and [illegible] priests from all parts of the state.

The church service was simple. Music was furnished by a quartette led by Joseph Ecker and including Joseph E. Ebbery, Sarah Davis and Thomas Quinn.

Among those attending the services were Governor Lewis O. Barrows of Maine, who recently lost a son who was killed in an automobile accident. Governor Francis P. Murphy of New Hampshire was also present.

Pallbearers were Judge Joseph W. Monahan of the Middlesex Probate Court, Chief Justice John P. Higgins of Superior Court, School Committeeman Henry J. Smith, Joseph E. McKenney of Brighton, Mayor John W. Whooley of Cambridge, Senators Edward Carroll of South Boston and Arthur F. Blanchard of Cambridge, Charles Clesty of Dorchester and Joseph A. Kozlowski.

SENATE DELEGATION

Delegations from the State Senate were led by Senator Joseph A. Langone Jr., in the absence of Senator Samuel H. Wragg, president of the Senate, who is in California. Speaker of the House Horace H. Cahill led that delegation.

Others attending were Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Francis E. Kelly, State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley, former Governor and Mrs. James M. Curley, Mayor and Mrs. Mansfield, Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin, Margaret O'Riordan, vice-chairman of the state Democratic committee.

Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole, Paul C. Ryan, heading the governor's office staff, Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty, City Treasurer John H. Dorsey.

State Education Commissioner James G. Reardon, Judge James Hurley, Judge John E. Swift, former Police Commissioner Eugene E. McSweeney, Bernard J. Doherty, secretary of the state development commission, and John J. Carney, Arthur L. Race, other members of that commission.

Burial was in Cambridge cemetery, Cambridge.

Dr. Gately Vote Charge Aired

Charges that Dr. G. Lynde Gately, candidate for school committee, is a resident of Winthrop and is an illegally registered voter in Boston were filed yesterday with the election commission by Richard G. Mahoney, of 81 Euston road, Brighton.

Mahoney charged that Dr. Gately's home is at 204 Pauline street, Winthrop, and that he has paid taxes on the property to the town of Winthrop for three years. He added that Dr. Gately's Boston address at 624 Bennington street, East Boston, is used for his office and that he no longer live at that address.

David B. Shaw, chairman of the election commission, said he would study Mahoney's charges and that Dr. Gately and Mahoney may later be invited to attend a commission hearing on the matter.

Dr. Gately, informed of Mahoney's charges, declared they were purely political and that at the proper time they would be answered.

Beauty in Midst of Havoc

A study of fire in the night by a Boston Evening American photographer makes a graphic picture. Ten firemen were stunned by an air blast just a few minutes after this picture was made as they battled a three-alarm fire at the warehouse of the Thompson & Norris division of the Hinde & Dauch Paper Company, 119 Braintree street, Brighton. They were thrown from ladders. The fire started about 2 this morning. Flames seen through open windows contrast the darkness of the night and gloomy brick building.

"When we first examined her, we didn't think there was much chance for her to live. She improved slightly during the night, but her condition is still critical," he said.

According to Dr. Park the woman appeared as though under the influence of a sedative.

Mrs. Volkman, a widow, is the mother of Dr. John Volkman, New York specialist.

Pants Fell Down But So Did Deer

ASTORIA, Ore., Oct. 14 (AP). Hugo Seppa was in the bathtub when a neighbor called that a buck deer was on his place. Seppa sped to the hunt, prepared to fire—then realized he'd forgotten his galluses.

Hunting instinct prevailed. While neighbors watched, he fired. The deer fell—so did Seppa's pants.

N. E. Narcotic Chief Hunted

A nation-wide search was started today for a man whom federal agents characterized as "public enemy No. 1 for New England."

The man, a member of a New York opium smuggling and narcotic ring, authorities said, was secretly indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury.

According to federal narcotic agents, the man is a "flashy dresser," having a tendency to wear "colored" suits and bright-colored ties.

He is alleged to have made weekly trips from New York to Boston since January, 193[illegible], distributing drugs to agents here. He is said to have been receiving $2500 a week from the New York ring.

Agents revealed that a trap was set recently in a Somerville garage, but the man failed to appear.

2 Brothers Hurt In Collision

Two brothers were injured, one probably fatally, when the car in which they were riding today collided with another auto and overturned at East Emerson street and Bellevue avenue, Melrose.

Pinned in his seat behind the wheel, John McGlone, 22, of Warwick road, Melrose, was extricated by police after they had worked for nearly a half hour with hack saws to cut through the door.

At Melrose Hospital he was found to be suffering from a fractured skull and internal injuries. Physicians said he may not live.

His brother, J. Edward McGlone, 24, same address, was taken to the same hospital. His injuries were not considered so serious.

The driver of the other car, Raymond B. Hart, 27, of Orient avenue, Melrose, escaped injury but suffered shock and was shaken up. He was also treated at the hospital.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By

Marjorie McBride

It would take an expert on amateur standings to figure out the exact status of Mrs. Janet Treat of Hingham. Probably he'd compromise by calling her an inveterate contest entrant . . . and a gratifying consistent contest winner.

MARJORIE McBRIDE

Something over a year ago, Mrs. Treat began to go in for contests in a big way and in the intervening months she has collected $2100 in cash and other prizes. Among the [illegible] are five washing machines, a refrigerator, [illegible] toasters, cosmetics and silk stockings. She knows all about contests, the people who get them up as advertising stunts, the people who enter them and the people who win.

She says about 12,000,000 persons take a fling at some prize contest in the course of a year. Most of them never win anything. Thousands win once or twice and there are a few hundred who win steadily.

"School" and Books Tell How to Win Contests

Her experience has convinced Mrs. Treat that contests run by reputable people are absolutely [illegible]. She doubts that there is ever any attempt to steer the award toward some friend of the contest managers.

Regular contest entrants live in a little world of their own. There are three or four magazines devoted to their needs, telling of new contests, giving advice on how to work them out. A Philadelphia man gives a regular course on contests.

Professors and even clergymen try them . . . usually in the names of their wives, however. The contest vogue isn't as widespread in New England as it is in the middle west, but it's gaining.

Mrs. Treat likes the prizes and can use the money, but it has never occurred to her she can make a living entering contests. As soon as it does, [illegible] quit. Before entering for a prize, she studies the rules carefully and observes them. If it's an essay and the call is for 200 words, she doesn't write 205. She gets into the competition early and stays to the end. Besides following the rules, she thinks neatness is the most important factor in a judge's decision. She says working on contests takes a keen sense of humor and imagination and is fine mental discipline.

Mrs. Marty Welch, 71, Shows Her Strength

Three Boston newspapermen who were close friends of the late Captain Marty Welch of Gloucester, fisherman and racing skipper, met his widow in Boston the other day. Mrs. Marty is 71. They respectfully suggested, for the sake of old times, that they would take her around to see the sights. They expected the party to last an hour, but the hands on the clock went round and 'round, and the bright-eyed little lady was still eager to carry on when they began to suggest it would be nice to start for home.

Which she did, murmuring that men weren't what they were in Marty's day! And two of the three journalists were late at the office and dead for sleep all next day.

Once you get started counting up "firsts" you can't stop. The other day the column cited some New England "firsts" and now here's Boston University with a list of its own. The literature says:

"The first co-educational school of medicine was at B. U. Helen McGill White, 1877, was the first woman Ph.D. in the world. Mrs. Lelia R. Sawtelle, School of Law, 1881, was the first woman admitted to the bar in Massachusetts."

NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

Set No. 2—Human Problem No. 7

It was the inevitable triangle with man's self-imposed commandment "Thou Shalt Not Tell," against his sworn oath to "Tell the Truth and Nothing but the Truth."

He was a young married police officer. Father of a child, apparently home-loving and proud of his lovely wife.

Then came the "outside" affair. She was an attractive woman. Little did they know their friendship would grow into a romance with a sequel of mysterious death, scandal and a sensational trial as its tragic end.

They met when she stopped at his traffic post. He learned she was the wife of a friend. Soon they were driving into the country, a secluded nook . . . a kiss. With it toppled over all thoughts of family, home and future. A kiss that would brand him as a "KISS and TELL COP."

Exposure came suddenly. Newspaper headlines screamed the story of her husband's death, of police investigation and her arrest charged with the poisoning of her husband, a charge of which she was later cleared.

The police turned to him. Was he the motive they demanded in merciless grilling? What was his part in this affair? To clear himself he must testify.

Could he risk being involved? Could he tell of his affair and expose himself to ridicule? He faced the crowded courtroom and with upraised hand swore to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

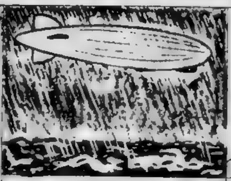
THE LAST COMMAND

Set No. 2—Human Problem No. 8

The Naval Board of Inquiry closed the investigation. The answer forever buried. Another major air disaster charged to acts over which man had no control.

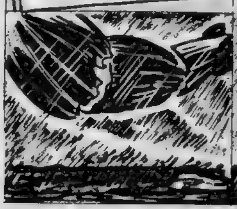
The dirigible commander had protested the flight, asking that it be delayed. Orders came to start at once.

"We have been ordered," the Commander told his aide, "to make a cross country flight to assure the success of a State Fair. The boys at the Capitol want some publicity. I hope they get the right kind."



The flight began. Into the storm area over Ohio rode the huge ship. Helplessly it was caught up, zoomed about, tore like a plummet to the ground, breaking in half.

There was nothing the Commander could do. All the science of air navigation could not stop this battle of nature.



It was a major disaster. Half the crew perished as one half of the ship crashed to the ground. The others hung desperately to the other half as it was carried through the air.

Helpless, tossed about in a raging torrent the last of the ship crashed. Only a few members survived. There was a great cry from the public for an investigation to place the responsibility.

THEORY VERSUS $1,000,000

Set No. 2—Human Problem No. 10

Through childhood, boyhood and early manhood, he enjoyed all the advantages of great wealth, with none of its responsibilities.

His father was a multi-millionaire Boston clubman and yachting enthusiast. His mother, also a Bostonian, was a direct descendant of the Tudor kings of England.

By training and education, he seemed fitted to become what President Roosevelt has termed an "economic royalist."

From [illegible] England, and [illegible] St. Pa[illegible] School at Concord, N. H. did their best to mold him to [illegible] form [illegible] socially and intellectually. But by the time he had entered Harvard he was [illegible] to [illegible] "[illegible]"

THE "WIZARD'S" BRIDE

Set No. 2—Human Problem No. 9

Into her humdrum frugal Boston life, romance came for the first time when she met—and loved—a glib and charming foreigner, several years her junior. He was only a barber, but he told her "Marry me, and some day, soon, I'll heap gold and jewels in your lap. I'll give you Paris gowns, autos, servants, everything."

Unbelieving but happy, she became his bride. Almost overnight a get-rich-quick scheme brought millions of dollars pouring into his hands. He said he was doubling, quadrupling investors' money by juggling currencies in international exchange.

Admirers called him Boston's "wizard" of finance. And as a wizard's magic his new wealth worked wonders for his [illegible]

Debutantes, Like Autumn Leaves, Whirl Here and There

By BETTY ALDEN

DEBUTANTES HAVE so often been referred to as tender buds in spring . . . fledglings in the social nest . . . butterflies flitting from flower to flower . . . and so forth . . . that we feel perfectly safe in adding one more to the already ample crop of similes . . . This time of year the debs are at their busiest and might well be compared to the autumn leaves . . . whirling hastily about, alighting first one place and then another . . .

AMY RANNEY

Their color scheme, as well as their activities, may also be compared to the autumn leaves . . . for all the fall colors of gold, deep reds, greens and browns, are in vogue for their costumes . . . Even the parties are planned with autumn foliage as an harmonious background for the energetic and vivacious debutante leaves . . . as they blow in [illegible] the door in their brilliant wools or silk dresses with fetching [illegible] hats and wispy veils . . .

Chrysanthemums in reddish tones decorated the luncheon tables at the Dedham Country and Polo Club today for the party at which Nancy Stevens was the guest of honor . . . The luncheon was given by her mother, Mrs. Bernard W. Stevens, and her aunt, Mrs. [illegible] W. Wheelwright, both of whom wore simple black costumes for the affair . . .

Nancy's debut gown was of gold embroidered black velvet, with a velvet [illegible] hat and three-quarter length veil . . . she wore a corsage of yellow and gold orchids . . .

Nancy will make her formal debut at a dance which Mrs. Wheelwright will give in her honor at the Chilton Club next month . . . She graduated last June from Beaver Country Day School and is a [illegible] and very attractive blonde . . .

Among the debutante guests at today's luncheon were the Misses Florence Forbes, Rosamond Hamlin, Mary Gilman, Helene Harlow, Cynthia Haskell, Natalie Hemenway, Ellen Hartt, Mary Louise Higgins, Virginia Lee Hyde, Angela Lang, Helen Leon and Beatrice Lewis, Catherine Little, Betsey Luscombe, Hilary Lunt, Cornelia Menard, Polly Merrill, Anne Motley, Ellen Moseley, Mary Louise Orr, Nancy New[illegible], Elizabeth Osborne, Nancy Osgood and Jane Pickman . . .

Also Amy Ranney, Nancy Stewart, Eleanor Petre, Virginia Prout, Ann Brown, Janet Simmons, Patricia Spencer, Lucy Pope, Louise Fry, Ruth Crocker, Jean Clark, Helen Claflin, Jean Stowell Cullen, Nancy Tucker, Susan Storey, Deborah Sprague, Jean Carpenter . . . and many others . . .

Deborah Bankart Party Today

FROM DEDHAM, the debutantes steer their course to Lynn this afternoon for the coming out party of Deborah Bankart, vivacious little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Bankart . . .

The rosy red tones of the draperies and rugs in the Bankarts music room are repeated in the flowers which give a brilliant hue to tall green cedar trees which form a background for the receiving line . . . Mrs. Bankart's moire gown is of the same rosy hue while Deborah is wearing a period gown of pale blue taffeta . . . It is made with short puff sleeves, a full skirt and a row of velvet bows down the front . . . she is carrying an old fashioned nosegay of rose and blue flowers . . .

Pouring at the flower-bedecked tea tables are a number of sister debs of the hostess . . . including Jean Carpenter, Cynthia Haskell, Isabel Firuski, Deborah Sprague, Priscilla Hall, Ann Minspaugh, Patricia Phelan, Betty Scudder and Ann Motley . . . Also serving as pourers are Sally Mosser, Marian Emerson and Nancy Whittier . . .

Following the tea dance, about one hundred young people will stay on for an informal supper dance at the Bankarts . . . Some of the young men who will be present are the Messrs. Albert M. Creighton Jr., Charles Brush, John Cunningham, Richard Devens, William Everts Jr., Gerald Fox, Laurence Johnson, Harold Kellogg, Jr., Prescott Pervere, Edward D. Rowley, and Eric Swenson . . .

Two girls who attended Geneva College in Switzerland with Deborah last winter, are here for the party . . . the Misses Doris Wood of Louisville, Kentucky, and Anne Milliken of New York . . . Deborah is planning to attend their coming out parties, the former's on Dec. 20th in Louisville, and Miss Milliken's in New York at Thanksgiving time . . .

Deborah is a graduate of the May School as well as of the Geneva College for Women . . .

JEAN HALLADAY is now looking forward to the harvest party which her aunt, Mrs. John Moulton of Hamilton will give for her some Sunday near Thanksgiving at her country place on the North Shore . . . Yesterday Jean was the guest of honor at a small luncheon given by another aunt, Mrs. John Leonard of Pasadena, California . . . This party took place at the Ritz Carlton, and among the guests were the Misses Mary D. Stevens, Mary Louise Higgins, Ellen Moseley, Janet Pierpont, Nancy Tucker, Anne Piper, Harriet Brooks, Nancy Whittier and Rosamond Hamlin . . .

Keen Interest in Avery Lectures

WITH THE NEWSPAPER headlines startling us with announcements of a new foreign crisis every day, there is very keen interest in world affairs . . . and the subscribers are eagerly awaiting Miss Eunice H. Avery's first lecture in her annual series here, which will take place tomorrow morning at 10:45 in the Hotel Statler ballroom . . .

Miss Avery has conducted a lecture course on current events for the benefit of the Children's Hospital for quite a few years, and as she has just returned from Europe she will be able to clarify a number of questions in the minds of her listeners . . . Her subject for the first lecture is "Changes Along the Rome-Berlin Axis" . . .

Miss Constance Learned and Miss Virginia Stone will be in charge at the doors of the ballroom and hostesses and ushers for the first lecture will be Mrs. Thomas S. Woods, Jr., Mrs. William de Ford Beal, Mrs. Robert C. Terry, Mrs. Donald Falvey, Miss Winifred Cunningham and Mrs. Roderick MacDonald . . .

Among the latest subscribers to the lecture course, of which Mrs. Frank Stewart is chairman, are Mrs. Roger Williams, Mrs. Nathaniel Stevens, Mrs. John C. Jones, Mrs. Joseph P. Draper, Mrs. Albert H. Chamberlain, Mrs. Charles H. Carter, Mrs. Benjamin W. Estabrook, Mrs. Harvey A. Kelley and Mrs. Harry G. Porter.

No Rest for the Debbie--- In Fun or Work

ANN BROWN MARY GRAY

SERIOUS THOUGHTS and charitable work follow right on the heels of jollity and merrymaking in the life of a debutante. Two evenings after Ann Hayward Brown makes her debut at one of the most lavish balls of the season at the Hotel Somerset, she and Mary Gray will be volunteer ushers at the concert by Rosa Ponselle in Symphony Hall, November 4th, which is being given to benefit the Christopher Shop. Miss Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Brown of Milton, and Miss Gray, also from Milton, is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Gray.

Benefit Talks Gain Patrons

Mrs. I. Tucker P[illegible], Mrs. Hugh Bancroft and Mrs. [illegible] H. Goodspeed [illegible] have recently added their names to the list of subscribers to the series of [illegible] which Dr. George E. Raiguel is giving to benefit the Boston Children's Friend Society.

The first lecture will begin at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, October 30, in the Louis XIV ballroom of the Hotel Somerset. The succeeding lectures will be given at the same place on the following Saturday mornings: November 13, November 27, December 11, January 8, January 22, February 5 and February 19.

Other subscribers to the series are Mrs. William H. Bood, Jr., Miss Sarah P. Bradlee, Mrs. Otto Frank Braley, Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. Charles A. Haskell, Mrs. John Edward Jackson and Mrs. Perc[illegible].

Induct Mrs. Meyer At Lenox Sunday

Mrs. John L. Meyer will be inducted as president of the Joyce Kilmer Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary at the installation of officers Sunday at the Hotel Lenox.

Mrs. Meyer, a charter member of the unit, has held various positions. She served as vice president of the unit last year and was a delegate to the convention at Swampscott last spring.

Sacred Heart Lectures Begin Season on Nov. 8

Boston alumnae of Sacred Heart launches its season with a series of lectures Monday afternoons at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Newton Center.

Robert Dana Skinner will be the guest speaker at the opening lecture Monday, November 8, with a discussion of Eugene O'Neill's plays from the Catholic viewpoint.

The second lecture, Monday, November 29, will feature Hon. George Payne of Washington, a member of the Federal Communications Commission, in a discussion of "Home vs. Radio." For the concluding talk Arnold Lunn of New York, well known adventurer, will relate the experiences of "A Journey Through Spain During the Civil War."

Mrs. Emlyn Mitchell of Ward street, Newton, president of the alumnae, is chairman of the ticket committee. Assisting her are many of the younger graduates of the school: Betty Blake, Ellen Bottomley, Cappy and Anne Ryan, Mrs. William McCarthy, Mrs. Griffin Fallon and Mrs. Charles Donovan.

Also helping with plans for the series are Alice Falvey, Alice Fitzgerald, Jean Kiely, Alice Hurley, Mrs. John McCarthy, Mrs. John Rooney, Katherine McLaughlin and Mrs. James Walsh.

Der Fuehrer Gives Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Did you ever know it to fail—the way bachelors love to pontificate about marriage, and love, and how to keep happy, meanwhile neglecting to take their own medicine?

The advising bachelor may be the dictator of a great nation. He may be burdened with problems at home and abroad. He may be threatened by war within and without the boundaries of his country. He may have complications—religious and political—but he can always find time to stop and lecture to the ladies.

Perhaps Der Fuehrer may have felt the world needed a good laugh, when he launched out with his lovelorn talk in Nuremberg the other day, and told ten thousand women how to be charming and keep their men, as if the [illegible] didn't know more about [illegible] than he. [illegible] any perfect [illegible].

Said Der F[illegible]:

"You women should embody THE ETERNAL FEMININE, because that never fails to attract men."

Mingled with the "heils" distinct snickers were audible through the vast audience.

[illegible]

Here was a [illegible] to be more feminine to attract men and in a nation where women are [illegible] feminine and tremendously outnumber men, yet nary a one apparently was feminine enough [illegible] Der Fuehrer.

If a bachelor president of the United States (we did have one) had been [illegible] who that [illegible] the audience might have chirped back:

"Why don't you take your own medicine?" or "Please prove your point."

"Men and women like to live together, and they always will," continued the male solitaire dictator, with the authority of [illegible] making a great and original discovery.

"And when they are reasonable it all goes much more easily. When they are not reasonable, they have to try harder."

Which sex was [illegible] dictator didn't [illegible] dies seemed [illegible].

DEFENDS OWN ACTS

[illegible]

"Men must be more and more masculine and women more and more feminine," [illegible].

"We want our women to remain women and our men to remain men. The manlier the man and the womanlier the woman the better they get along in their life and work.

"Many people abroad," he continued, "especially foreign women, think our German women are enslaved and that their only task is to please the will of barbarous men."

[illegible] sent them back to the kitchen.

Calls for Color In Patriotism

"Patriotism must be as colorful in peace as it is in war, if America is to stay out of war," the Rev. Ralph Sockman, pastor of Christ Church, New York, told Northeastern University students.

"We can take patriotism and make it peaceful by peaceful means, where in the past we have done it by military means," he urged.

CHAPTER 28

But it was just pretending. Sooner or later the words would come again and then they'd have to be faced.

Isn't his wife enough for him, Linda thought angrily? If he doesn't like commuting why doesn't he move his family into town? And why did he pick on me? I was happy where I was—I didn't want his old job. He had no right to think I'd be another Mrs Breen!

Hadn't he? She thought of the nights he'd seen her in hotels, at roof gardens. He'd been with a party, [illegible] one or two of the [illegible] out of town managers. And she? Well, it had been pretty obvious the sort she'd [illegible] with. Good time [illegible]

None of them had [illegible] suggest an [illegible] There'd been [illegible] But how does [illegible] office [illegible] dressed [illegible] she'd gone [illegible] with [illegible] two [illegible]

I suppose he [illegible]

[illegible]

SHE WAS SORRY

[illegible]

She [illegible] "Not a bad guy, Deeming. How much longer are you going to pretend you're not interested, Linda?"

"I'm not pretending," Linda said frankly. "I like him, but it's only the job I care about, really. I don't want him. His wife can have him."

"Oh—that's it."

"What do you mean?"

"Scared of his wife?"

You couldn't be real [illegible] Hester. She was too frank, too direct. She thought [illegible] and she said them and she had no intention to hurt. Linda knew that, but she winced as she answered "Scared" No, I'm not scared. But I'm not coming between any woman and her husband, I don't care what sort of no-account he is. I can't help Deeming sending me flowers, but I wish he wouldn't.

"I don't like it, I hate it! It started innocently enough and now I don't know what to do except quit, and how can I do that? I've got my family to think of."

HESTER EXPLAINS

"If you're thinking about dear Elsie Deeming," Hester said after a long pause, "you can forget her. The boss told me the story ages ago, the old gossip, and made me swear not to tell, and I never did, but I will now. It seems that Deeming has a stenographer complex or something!

"Anyway, the present Mrs. Deeming was once the stenographer. The Breen woman was the one he liked best, but the other one made him marry her. He played around with Breen afterwards—maybe he still does or maybe you've really replaced her in his affections. And the wife knows all about it and doesn't give a damn. In fact, there was quite a scandal four or five years ago when she wanted to get a divorce to marry somebody else, and he fought it. So now they're good friends—for the children's sake, I suppose, or maybe it's because he doesn't want to pay her the alimony he'd have to. But as far as coming between a woman and her husband is concerned—you have nothing to worry about."

"I still don't want him."

Hester rose to go. "Do as you like, Hon, but you could do worse. He's got money to spend, let him spend it! Besides he's swell-looking, and good company. I could go for him myself."

"I'm still not interested," Linda said [illegible]

[illegible]

SHE'D GO HOME

[illegible]

"The least I can do," Linda told Deeming when he suggested driving her into the country somewhere over the week-end, "is to go home and see what I can do about it."

[illegible]

"That club is no place for you. It's all right for young girls and old ladies. But you're past all that, Linda. You owe yourself something better."

"I told you that I couldn't afford an apartment," [illegible]

"And I told you that I'd see that you could afford it."

"You don't understand. I don't want presents. I want to be independent. When I can pay for an apartment I'll have one. If you want to do something for me, help me get a raise."

He smiled. "That isn't so simple, Linda. I've done what I could for you. You know that. Now, as a friend, I'd like to do more—and you don't want me to. Don't you ever intend to let anyone help you? Do you intend to go on alone forever?"

"Maybe. Or maybe I'll marry some day."

"And what will that bring you?"

"Happiness, I hope."

MR. SCOTT!

He smiled again. "I wonder. It doesn't bring everyone happiness. I don't think that you and I are the marrying kind, Linda. I think you're like me—you value your freedom too much."

"Maybe that's why I want to pay my own way."

"All right! I like your independence. But we'll talk about it again, later. Time you grew up, my dear. No hard feelings?"

"No, no hard feelings," she said. She, too, smiled. But she was glad to get away, even if it was only to Philadelphia and the sick family.

On the train she sat down opposite an elderly man who looked across at her over his spectacles then returned to his newspaper.

It looked . . . no it couldn't be . . . But it MUST be. . . .

"Mr. Scott!"

He stood up and came over to her chair at once, and she knew from that puzzled line between his eyes, that he hadn't the least idea who she was.

"I'm Constance's friend, Linda. Don't you remember me?"

"Why, yes, of course. Let me see . . . it wasn't in London—at the wedding?"

"Oh, no—home, in the country, ages ago. Connie and I used to play together when we were children. Surely you remember Linda Perry?"

"Linda Perry—of course! How could I have forgotten even for a moment? You still live out in the country?"

"No, I'm in New York now, but the family is in Philadelphia. I'm going to see my sister, Blanche, who is ill."

LIL'S TROUBLES AND LOVES RECALLED

CHAPTER 431

SAMUEL BRIXTON stirred uneasily in the seat beside me as I silently conned my memories of dead Robert Savarin.

Knowing that he could leave nothing to Lillian or Marion because of Harry Underwood's certain disapproval, he yet was insistent that his estate, much larger than anyone had dreamed, was to be divided equally between his sister Mrs. Cosgrove, the only one left of his immediate family, and the woman he idolized.

In order that she might have it if she or Marion ever needed it he had devised the scheme of deeding half his estate to me, 15 thousand of it to be used for my own charities, or for any possible personal need, and the rest to be held for Lillian and Marion, to be given to them when they should be in need of it.

Build Radiant Beauty From Within Yourself

JOYCE MATHEWS is a quite perfect example of beauty built from within—with the lively tendrils of hair, shining eyes and pulsatingly soft skin only needing to be enhanced and highlighted by beauty aids.

THOUGH the sun never sets on the cosmetic markets that [illegible] your system are [illegible] time with any material [illegible]

[illegible]

Now that modern [illegible] food handling put most of the vitamins [illegible] has been decided that the only answer to creating beauty through health which is to supply you directly with all those vitamins that the [illegible] everyday food you eat has lost through milling, grinding, processing and refrigeration.

* * *

It's not a question of dosage—like springtime sulphur and molasses or winter liver oils. It's a matter of giving back to you what is only rightfully yours—the sun-given, wholesome elements that modern methods have stolen from the very food you eat.

So when your hair takes leave of its curl with disconcerting abruptness, when fingernails become brittle as glass, and make-up refuses your company as though you were a tremendous bore, it's high time to do something about it.

And don't let the fact that you've watched your diet—with all kinds of balanced leafy foods and carotenes in mind—let you consider yourself as not the person we're pointing at right now.

Through two soluble gelatin globules—one golden, the other black—you can refund your system every day with the exact amount of vitamins A, B, C, D, E and G that modern methods have thieved from the food you eat.

Both globules are taken once a day, before any meal.

It's a story so simple that its tremendous truth is almost difficult to grasp at first. But it is sure as creation that if your body receives what it takes to build beauty, you shall have it.

[illegible]

B is for a [illegible] gestion [illegible] Joan Crawford fingernails. Yeast and eggs yield it.

"C" is what you're most apt to miss up on because it's [illegible] ripened raw fruits and vegetables. Cuts heal in no time, teeth and gums [illegible]

[illegible]

Build beauty from within—it is the only certain, sure-as-living method. For information on where the all-vitamin globules, which replace food elements your every-day meals have lost, may be found, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays until 5, or write her at the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

COACH DECLARES GRADS STAY YOUNGER

THE old grad is in better form than he used to be. He looks healthier—and younger!

This year, says Lou Little, Columbia University's famous football coach, the grandstands are full of men who keep in condition and who take pride in their appearance.

"Like most football men," Mr Little says, "I seem to have a continual battle with my appetite, but I advise the team to come away from the table feeling as if they could eat a little more, and I have to follow my own advice. Besides, I'm told that more people die from overeating than from starvation."

Mr. Little is a pretty fine example of sensible living. He [illegible] pounds—less than [illegible] football—and is [illegible]

Canned Prunes Make Winter Meal Highlights

By MARTHA LEE

MANY homemakers are still busy with canning, preserving and pickle making—preparing in advance for winter meals.

A lady told us recently of canning prunes.

Well, our only experience with canning prunes was several years ago while living in the State of Washington near the Columbia river. These prunes when canned were without a doubt the high spot of many a winter meal.

But this lady actually meant the kind of prunes which can be procured here. We set forth her argument, which we consider quite convincing.

"There's a dual saving of fuel and money if you buy a twenty-five pound box of fresh crop prunes for canning. Perhaps the idea of canning prunes has never occurred to you before, but there are advantages.

"Of course you know there is always a saving in buying a larger quantity, but once the box is opened and the fruit exposed to the air, it very gradually loses some of its soft-meated texture. The answer to this minor problem is to put the fruit up in glass jars, thus preserving all of the prune's original freshness."

Prunes usually are sorted according to size. When they are large, the number in a pound may be as low as 15 to 20; when very small as high as 90 to 120. When buying, ask for a definite size—40 to 50s if you wish a medium-sized fruit. Although there are more seeds per pound of small prunes than of large, as a rule you will pay less per pound of prune meat if you buy the smaller fruit.

Yield: One pound of dried prunes make about four cups of fruit when soaked and drained, four cups of cooked fruit drained or two cups of cooked pitted fruit.

PRUNE AND NUT SANDWICH FILLING

1 cup chopped prunes
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon orange marmalade
½ cup nut meats, coarsely chopped

Blend all together and use on white, orange or whole wheat bread.

Boys' Stories Race By M-G-M, Universal

"Angels With Dirty Faces," "Boystown" Due for Production Soon

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14 (INS)—Looks like a production race looming between Universal and M-G-M over which studio will get to the market first with boys' stories, featuring the influence of priests and their work in shaping the young mind.

Surprising to hear that Cary Grant showed up at luncheon the other day with a script of "Graustark" under his arm, since this is the picture Sam Goldwyn had scheduled for Merle Oberon and Gary Cooper.

But on second thought, Gary has so many pictures lined up, including "Kiss in the Sun," "Transatlantic Flight" and "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," that Sam may be very wise in looking for another hero for his mythical kingdom yarn. With every producer in town on Cary's trail after "The Awful Truth," it would be a feather in Sam's cap to get him on the lot.

The music by Leo Fall is its chief claim to importance, so it is more than likely Jeanette MacDonald as well as Ilona Massey will be starred ... The press agents are talking seriously about organizing so their craft will not be misrepresented on the screen. AUSTEN LAKE

Holy Cross-Georgia Monopolizes Boston Stage on Saturday

AUSTEN LAKE

HOLY CROSS' SPORT VISIONARY, Thos. J. McCabe, is pioneering an uncharted boxoffice territory next Saturday. At considerable cost and some personal anxiety Tom is importing Georgia U, the juggernaut of the South, for a clinical game with his Crusaders at Fenway Park. He has the dual object of determining whether two Grade-A varsities from out of town, each with Eastern Seaboard title ambitions, can capture Boston fancy; also he hopes to use the game as a step to bigger and better competition for his college in the national field.

The game should at least be a turnstile success. For Boston is void, nude and empty of major college football on Saturday, and the only action, elsewhere than at Tufts Oval, will be the wind toying with peanut shucks and left-behind rubbish on the vacant slopes in other varsity craters

Boston College is medicating its bruises after Temple's double-O disappointment on the holiday Harvard is marauding against Navy in Baltimore. B U is pa[illegible]nicking with Clarkson Tech in the northern cow-country at Potsdam, N. Y. Even "come-recently" Northeastern is week-ending at Lowell Tech and the only rival attraction is at Medford where Dave Morey's revitalized Bates team plays Tufts.

So, Holy Cross has the calcium all to itself and is staging a modified Shakesperian version entitled, "To be or not to be." That is the question. For whatever design H. C. has on National recognition hangs on this contest.

Giant-Killer From Athens

OL' JAW-JAW IS A NAME ASSOCIATED with pan-fried chicken, vine-twined cabins, kinky-headed pickaninnies, the fragrance of honey-suckle, Gone with the Wind, licking Yale, white mule, mountain music and Gov. E. D. River's hilarious spat with Massachusetts. Happily his excellency's huff has fizzled down to mutual friendship, although he regretfully declined H. C.'s invitation to visit Boston with his varsity and partake of the Boston version of Dixie cooking, like Tremont Street's mammy-made waffles, Back Bay chittlin's and Scollay Sq. cracklin's.

Georgia's varsity, itself, has the reputation of a giant killer built mostly on the four consecutive lickings handed Yale between 1930 and '34. And last fall with a right puny team they [illegible] a damper on Fordham's Rose Bowl dream with a 7-7 tie in the Polo Grounds. In fact there were many times during that contest when the Jaw-jaw lads had Fordham out of puff

So Georgia is worth licking, which [illegible] H. C. realizes will require considerable doing. Once done, however, the team will make a fine footstool in reaching for the National cookies

Lumpkin Vs. Osmanski

ON EACH OF THE LAST THREE SATURDAYS, Ted Twomey, the Georgia line coach, has been perching on the top of the Fitton Field stands, jotting down memorabilia on Dr. Eddie Anderson's single wing back style and the way the backfield has of hopping around. He said after watching Georgetown bounced around that H. C.'s fullback, Bill Osmanski, appeared the equal of any combination plunging, open field running and blocking back in the country.

But he added hastily, lest it seem like praising the enemy, that he thought Georgia had the proper solution for Osmanski's slew-foot wiggles, buck-jumps and billy goat butts. The solution, he thought, was Quinton Lumpkin, Georgia's 19[illegible] pound roving center, who smeared Fordham's All-America Wojceikowicz last autumn and likes nothing better than stopped an irresistible force with his chin and forehead

The time to stop Osmanski, said Twomey, was on the scrimmage line and before he gets up a head of steam, because once in the open there doesn't seem to be any solution to bald Bill at all, unless you get him by the belt loops or the thinning hair of his head. So Georgia will crash its ends in fast instead of fading them, trusting to develop the plays prematurely and nailing the carrier in his tracks.

* * *

Town's Lone Big Game

THIS SHOULD BE A CUSTOMER'S GAME, one of the dish-it-out and take-it affairs where the tide flows in alternate directions. Because this season Dr. Anderson has abandoned his compact style of offense with boresome power dives and bone-cracking churnings through the tackles. The type of his material has changed and with it his system of offense.

Saturday, for example, the first offensive play of the Georgetown game was a flat pass to Osmanski and a seventy-yard run which was a delight to the eye. Bill shuttled and stiff-armed and hip-slipped, picking up fresh waves of interference from the rear and zig-zagging a course which must have covered 100 yards. With a man like that in a backfield a game is seldom monotonous. He has the potentialities of a Joe DiMaggio, a constant bust-up threat to any game.

What Georgia has, must, for lack of opportunity to measure it by eye, be judged by hearsay. That hearsay has been pretty potent. Over the years the records tell the story. Besides, it's the lone big game in town.

[illegible]

The daily $5 award goes to W[illegible] [illegible] road [illegible] He [illegible] Hartnett as manager of the Bees His winning letter follows

"I think Gabby Hartnett will be the next manager of the Bees for several reasons. As a product of Massachusetts he would undoubtedly prove popular with the local fans

"During the temporary absence of Charley Grimm, Gabby showed himself an able manager by his handling of the Cubs.

"Above all, he is a spark plug with the ability to fire his men with enthusiasm and the urge to win

"As for McKechnie leaving the Bees, Bill evidently plays the game of life like a game of baseball.

"Conservative, cautious, unwilling to gamble on the chance of a big splurge, he tosses away the managership of a possible pennant contender in 1938 for the additional salary and security of a last place club where he can't possibly do any worse than his predecessor

"I wish Bill might have led the Bees for at least another year as I believe he has considerably hurt their pennant chances by leaving at this time.

"The Bees are definitely on the way up—McKechnie knows it—yet he goes over to the Reds.

"Willingly?—who knows?

Head Coach Hank Hardwick has decided to start Heber Player at left guard instead of Dick Gunderson. With Cooke in Ingram's place at left half, the starting team is settled. Ingram will probably see some service, Saturday, but Cooke will start, says Hardwick

The Navy, as usual, presents a representatively national squad as a whole, but the varsity team, as picked at present, leans toward the states of Illinois, California and Arkansas

KELLEY VS. BROUILLARD OCT. 22 FOR N. E. LIGHT HEAVY TITLE

[illegible] Lou Brouillard of Worcester vs. Ray Kelley [illegible] in the 12-round bout of the next Goodwin A. C. boxing show at the Boston Garden on Friday night Oct. 22

[illegible]

Because Tony Shucco has automatically abandoned the N. E. light-heavyweight title, being no longer able to come in at 175 pounds the winner of the Brouillard-Kelley fight will be recognized as the champion

Brouillard anxious to swing back into action, issued a challenge not long ago, and Kelley was the first to respond

At first Larruping Lou and his handlers didn't take Kelley seriously feeling the youngster was flushed with victory over Cunningham.

Brouillard and his handlers regarded the acceptance and Kelley's title claim as a bit brazen.

But the Brookline Butcher Boy is ready to step into the iron-fisted French-Canadian clouter and, furthermore, is around telling one and all he'll win.

Elis Workout Under Lights

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 14 (AP)—Coach Raymond "Ducky" Pond eased his Yale varsity squad through a light workout today stressing defense against Army plays and polishing up the passing game in preparation for Saturday's tilt.

The let-up was a relief after yesterday's grind, the longest and stiffest workout of the season. The squad moved from the Bowl to flood-lighted Anthony Thompson Field late in the day after darkness interfered.

Jack Castle and Charlie Miller are likely starters at the guard berths against the Cadets. Miller replaces Bill Dickens. Otherwise the lineup is the same as that in the Penn. game.

Jack McGrath stating that Dan O'Mahony has displayed brilliant form in recent wrestling contests and that in his opinion the youthful Irishman would be a cinch to win over Yvon Robert.

• • •

BILL McCARTHY, who is making the football bookings for Tom Yawkey at Fenway Park, saying a few kind words about the Georgia eleven which plays Holy Cross at Fenway Park on Saturday afternoon . . . Bill declaring the crowd which will see the game will be as large as the gathering that turned out for the holiday clash between Boston College and Temple . . . With Harvard and Boston University playing out-of-town and Boston College idle, Holy Cross and Georgia having the old home town very much to themselves in football . . . Holy Cross putting on the steam for its night-before-the-game smoker at the Cope Square Hotel.

Dave Wilson rushing from Rockingham to get into a tux in time for the dinner in his honor at the Club Mayfair . . . Johnny Buckley, Jack Sharkey and other persons at the Wilson dinner trying to get Dave to give them a few winners.

Chairman Charles F. Connors of the Massachusetts Racing Commission paying tribute to Wilson, and also remarking on the success of the racing season in Massachusetts this season . . . More than $2,000,000 in revenue for the State, and with horse and dog racing conducted on the highest possible level.

Wilson Goes For Jolly In First

Gelding in Better Form Than Poor

By DAVE WILSON

BEST BET—JOLLY—First race

ROCKINGHAM PARK, N. H., Oct. 14—Beaten a few days back by Chatuga and Zevanaid by little more than a length and a half, R. Gonnello's Jolly looks like the safest hazard of the day tomorrow afternoon, as Jack Dempsey Day is celebrated at the Old Rock.

The [illegible] has been running [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] first race [illegible].

FIRST—Jolly, Teeter Totter, Bank Holiday.

If anything [illegible] TEETER TOTTER [illegible] BANK HOLIDAY [illegible]

SECOND—[illegible], Grandma's Boy.

[illegible] TRUMPITY [illegible] SAN MAS BOY [illegible]

THIRD—Civil War, Pocket Piece, Irasol 2d.

CIVIL WAR [illegible] POCKET PIECE [illegible] played [illegible] race.

FOURTH—Standard Time, Miss Hollywood, Memory Chair.

STANDARD TIME [illegible] other day and [illegible] lengths [illegible] was [illegible] beaten [illegible] lengths [illegible] MISS HOLLYWOOD [illegible] a length [illegible] figures [illegible] appears to be [illegible] MEMORY CHAIR [illegible] Light [illegible] Mi[illegible] and was [illegible]

FIFTH—Night Raven, Rams Head, The Singer.

NIGHT RAVEN was [illegible] high [illegible] last race [illegible] fourth to Wise W[illegible] beaten only a [illegible] the money. In [illegible] Phil Roberts [illegible] winner over a [illegible] to that which [illegible] entered here. RAMS HEAD [illegible] of the [illegible] a few days back. The increased distance in this race will be greatly in his favor. THE SINGER which comes from far off the pace should [illegible] off [illegible] stretch run to snaggle the show award.

SIXTH—Crop, Social Error, Skyride.

CROP was [illegible] the other day and ran well against such as Natty Boy and Superwick. He was on top of the pace all the way and finished fifth, beaten by less than three lengths by the winning Natty Boy. He drops down an elevator shaft in class and apparently needs only a half hearted effort from Jockey Knott to win. SOCIAL ERROR second to Stavka last out and winner of his previous effort looks next best. SKYRIDE for the remainder.

SEVENTH—Miss Leannah, Sir Rose, Bristle.

MISS LEANNAH finished third to Waxwing and Myron in a blistering mile the other day and was the winner of her previous outing. Running back to either one of those two races she should never leave the result of the seventh in doubt. SIR ROSE beat Garden Message and others in his last and looks a threat over the main danger. BRISTLE, which has been closing well in sprint races, should find the increased distance to his liking.

EIGHTH—Bonnie Buzz, Sandwrack, Long Bit.

Jockey Hightshoe rode BONNIE BUZZ as if he were going to the hunts the other day in a mile and one-sixteenth race. They are going a mile and three-sixteenths tomorrow, and Apprentice F. Sheih will don the chauffeur's regalia. SANDWRACK, winner of last race and a good stayer, figures to provide the sternest contention. LONG BIT, also a winner last trip, cannot be ignored.

"I hated to suspend the boys, but I had to do it," said McCarthy. "Our 13-13 tie with Mission high on the holiday, a game that we should have won, proves that we can along without these lads and will continue to do so."

Wage, Hour Bill Faces Criticism

Labor Indicates It Will Scrutinize Proposal Very Carefully

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

While business and finance confine themselves to worrying about the wage and hour legislation proposed by President Roosevelt, opposition is developing in a quarter that should be dissipating their fears. The American Federation of Labor has clearly indicated that it will not accept such a measure out of hand.

The National Labor Relations Board is already under fire, with the older organization taking the initiative in alleging favoritism, while the newer one adopted a resolution attacking certain decisions of the board. Opposition to control of wages and working hours is therefore springing up in the one direction calculated to do some good. Thus, once again, making it look as though business and finance were permitting themselves to be haunted by ghosts existing in their imagination alone. For the benefit of those who have any doubts of the A. F. of L.'s reticence regarding the proposed legislation, we call attention to the wording of the resolution passed at the convention calling for careful study of it because the Federation is "reluctant to approve the proposal for a commission to regulate working conditions." Obviously the inference is that such matters are the business of unions. And, it might be added, if taken from them there will be little need for their services.

• • •

The motion picture industry has laid plans for a banner 1937-38 season. The industry as a whole is expected to release about 593 feature pictures and as they go so go the fortunes of individual companies. Schedules of some of the more important companies we understand are as follows: Twentieth Century-Fox 66, Paramount 50-60, Warner Brothers 60, Columbia 62, R-K-O 66, M-G-M 44-52 and United Artists 26. In the event the general market finds it's footing somewhere in here it might pay to keep close watch on the success of the features released by individual companies as it seems almost certain it will find reflection in the markets, especially from current low levels.

• • •

An interesting sidelight on the motion picture industry is that of the total features under consideration or in production only 10 have been definitely announced to be in Technicolor. And of the estimated number of shorts to be released—well in excess of 1000, according to reports, 250 may be in color.

• • •

The stock market for all its reluctance to provide positive cheer is once again doing things that warrant hopes such a day may not be far off. Bids for the better issues now may be said to underly current price levels. Yesterday when the second hour selling threatened to develop into panic proportions there were literally clusters of bids in the leaders that finally turned a rout into a satisfactory rally. In view of the shattered morale traders and investors so plainly exhibit more of the same is badly needed. We would look for this when the financial district sees present events in their true light; meaning the price possibilities of a farm law, the opposition of labor to control and the difficult path facing a new foreign policy.

• • •

In the meanwhile it should not be forgotten that the time alloted to the ICC for a rate decision has run out and increases granted may burst on the financial world with surprising suddenness at any moment.

New Liquidation Sends Stocks Off

Aldrich Talk in Rochester Big Factor

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS)—The stock market turned weak under renewed liquidation in the last half hour today after an irregular performance most of the session.

The late selling, which sent the ticker a minute behind, started in the steels and rails and then spread to the rest of the list. Losses ran to 3 points in such issues as Chrysler, Bethlehem and U. S. Steel.

Considerable influence was exerted by the Rochester speech of Winthrop W. Aldrich, Chase National Bank chairman, who blamed government policies for the market's restricted liquidity and the collapse in prices since August. He called for an immediate big cut in margins.

Selling of impaired margin accounts, and cashing of profits on Wednesday's rallying steels, broke down quoted values at the start. The list stiffened, though, after these offerings were absorbed.

In favor most of the time were shares of Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, St. Joseph Lead, Phelps Dodge, American Metal, Westinghouse, General Electric, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Monsanto Chemical, Loew's, Columbian Carbon, American Radiator, Eastman Kodak, Owens-Illinois, Deere, Oliver Farm, Caterpillar Tractor, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power & Light, Wheeling Steel, National Steel, Chesapeake & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Great Northern, Douglas Aircraft, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Macy, National Distillers and Continental Oil.

Narrow to down a point or more were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Western Union, National Lead, Cutler Hammer, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Woolworth and International Harvester.

CURRENT FACTORS

A bolstering influence was seen in figures of the Edison Electric Institute disclosing the country's production of electricity for the week ended Oct. 9, advanced .2 of 1 per cent over the preceding period and was 5.1 per cent above the corresponding week last year.

The upturn was more than seasonal and was fairly well distributed throughout major geographic areas.

On the other hand, the showing of bank clearings for the week concluded yesterday tended to cast a slight cloud on the financial scene. The total for 22 leading cities was 6.5 per cent under the comparable short 1936 week, according to the Dun & Bradstreet summary.

At the beginning of foreign exchange transactions the French franc was up .00¼ of a cent at 3.37¼ cents. Sterling was 1-16 of a cent higher at $4.96.

Aldrich Urges Margin Cut

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 14 (INS)—Blaming the collapse in stock market values since August on the impaired efficiency of the stock market and governmental policies rather than on business or any volume of foreign selling, Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman, Chase National Bank of New York, today called on the federal reserve board to order a substantial cut in margin requirements.

Aldrich told the Rochester Chamber of Commerce that the current 55 per cent margin rate is actually 122 per cent as the brokers calculate it. He asserted that bankers as well as brokers in the past have considered 20 to 25 per cent as satisfactory margin in the past, whereas the present rate is five times as high.

Discussing the control over speculation through the raising and lowering of margins, Aldrich said it should be a two-way operation, and that margins should be cut when necessary as well as being lifted when stocks were going up rapidly. He stated that if the reserve had cut margins from the present 122 per cent rate to 42 per cent early in September, it would have been "a very helpful thing."

Aldrich attacked the high capital gains tax as a depressing influence on values since it deterred men of means from trading in securities. High income taxes were listed as another factor.

Real Estate Values Near Static Level

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14 (AP)—H. ... Walther, of Chicago, president of the Society of Residential Appraisers, told members and guests of the 24th annual convention of the Mortgage Bankers Association today that real estate values are seeking a proportionate static level.

Pointing out a study of social trends indicated a static population around 1970, the speaker predicted real estate values would seek proportionate static level.

Business Men Concerned Over National Trends

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Financial Writer

Wholly apart from partisan politics, financiers and business men are plainly concerned over national trends. A counterpart of the apprehension expressed in the speculative markets has been expressed by speakers at the 63d annual convention of the American Bankers Association, which comes to an end today.

An address by Henning W. Prentis, Jr., president of the Armstrong Cork Company, of Lancaster, Pa., could have been construed as a rebuttal to certain aspects of President Roosevelt's fireside chat over the radio Tuesday night. Prentis talked as a Democrat and as a progressive man of business.

Mr. Prentis declared:

"I am convinced that there can be no political freedom without a large measure of economic freedom; that if in our haste to succor the lazy and the ignorant, the poor and the unfortunate, we destroy the pillars that support the temple of representative democratic government, the price that we and they would pay for a brief period of the more abundant life would be too dear."

Prentis praised the administration for placing before American banking and industry an enlarged conception of social responsibility.

Seeking to propose a constructive way out, the business executive concluded:

"Banking, business, agriculture, government—all should have a common objective from this time forward; to get everyone who wants to work, back to work quickly, and thus end the corroding influence of government subsidies."

Dealing critically with some of the specific measures advocated by President Roosevelt, Prentis said:

"It should be a matter of the deepest concern to every thinking citizen that our chief executive, even though actuated by the best of intentions, now proposes to make the federal courts subservient to the executive will; to centralize the power of quasi-judicial and quasi-legislative commissions in the executive's hands; to add powers hitherto exercised by the sovereign states to those of the federal executive; to utilize the taxing power to take money from certain classes for distribution to other classes; to secure lump sum appropriations with the right to allocate expenditures for various purposes by executive fiat.

"He has already: Acquired substantial power to regulate the value of the currency; to control indirectly the prices of securities on the stock market and to exercise considerable control over commodity exchanges. He has already secured partial power to regulate agricultural production and he now seeks the power to exercise a large measure of control over the wages and hours and working conditions of industry. State government is also endangered by the proposal to divide the country into seven economic provinces for federal administrative purposes and to place great areas under a species of state Socialism so far as electric power is concerned."

Mr. Wadsworth threw out a hint that Uncle Sam ought to consider forgiving war debts as a means of promoting exports. He said:

"War debts of some ten billion dollars lie peacefully in the treasury at Washington, their future shrouded in mystery. They hang like a cloud over any effort to stabilize exchanges and restore normal financial relations between debtor and creditor. They cannot be ignored, must be dealt with and put on a practical basis. The future of our foreign trade depends largely on how this country acts in the role of creditor."

Another New Deal critic was Orval W. Adams, of Salt Lake City, new president of the American Bankers' Association.

Adams' uncontested election by the bankers was no surprise, as he moved up in the regular order from the first vice-presidency.

Adams created a sensation two years ago when his outspoken criticism of Washington economic policies led to his unscheduled nomination as second vice-president. Recently the steam roller of the association has been working on him to moderate his attitude toward the administration, and it is expected that in his inaugural address today he will display discretion.

Philip A. Benson, president of the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn, was moved up from the second vice-presidency of the association to the first vice-presidency, and Robert M. Hanes, president of the Wachovia Bank & Trust Company of Winston-Salem, N. C., was chosen second vice-president. Hanes is reported to have decided ideas concerning drastic internal reorganization of the bankers' association.

Adams is uncompromising in his insistence on a balanced federal budget.

Roosevelt Using Methods of Demagogue?

Haney Analyzes the Fireside Broadcast

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

Special to Boston Evening American.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—In some respects, Mr. Rosevelt's latest broadcast seems reassuring.

He proposes no further steps to pack the Supreme Court, and thus admits at least a temporary defeat.

He asserts that most business men know that he does not want to prevent them from making a "decent" profit, and that he is trying to make property more secure.

He suggests at one point that he knows that business costs must be kept down, and that large volume and low prices are necessary for real prosperity.

But that is about as much encouragement as I can find in the talk, which on the whole seems to me to be one of the President's least statesmanlike efforts.

* * *

He shows his hostility to the court by blaming it for preventing progress. And while he was broadcasting, one of his most dangerous young advisors (Jackson) was attacking the whole idea of an independent judiciary in a speech in North Carolina.

What is a "decent" profit?

How can a government make property more secure by giving property away? Mr. Roosevelt, proposes, like Huey Long, to give every family a property stake in the nation. But his method of doing so would leave no existing property rights intact, and would give no security for property in the future.

He barely mentions the budget and does not refer to taxes, although every one of his proposals means increased government spending.

* * *

There is plenty of the usual sophistry and loose thinking. For example, he virtually says that those who like democracy will want Congress to be in session all the time and the government continually interfering in business. In other words, if you are a real Democrat, you can't get enough legislation and government action! Does that make sense?

Again, he says that those who oppose his schemes are opposed to his "objectives." He boasts that the "average citizen" understands his "objectives and policies," and says this is enough. Neither statement is true. Everybody wants people to be happy and have higher standards of living. Roosevelt did not discover that people want more abundant life, and he has no monopoly on Utopian objectives. But the real problem is "how?" What are the means? What will he do about it?

* * *

Well, his main proposals are the same old "wages and hours bill" and "crop control"—the NRA and the AAA, somewhat moderated in scope.

And what is the fundamental error in these proposals?

They mean restricted production and artificially high prices.

Thus both the cost of living of the city laborer is raised, and the cost of living and supplies and equipment of the farmer are increased. (We know this from recent experience.)

Neither Mr. Roosevelt nor anyone else can give us "ABUNDANCE" and at the same time keep prices and wages high.

When he comes to attack private monopoly, he seems to see that "business prosperity depends upon a low-price policy." Why, then, does he not admit that the same principle applies when his government seeks to run a monopolistic control over crops, or to reduce hours and increase wages of labor?

* * *

I fear that the answer is plain. Mr. Roosevelt is using the methods of the demagogue. He thinks that he can promise the larger groups of voters whatever they want and thus maintain his political power.

One sure thing is that his only chance to make a show of "delivering" is by means of inflation.

Another is that this is no appeal to the "nation." It is strictly an appeal to class.

Cotton Report For September

WASHINGTON—Oct. 14 (AP)—The census bureau reported today that cotton consumed during September totaled 601,837 bales of lint and 73,700 of linters, compared with 604,380 and 72,215 in August this year, and 269,767 and 68,799 in September last year.

Cotton on hand Stptember 30 was reported held as follows:

In consuming establishments 991,224 bales of lint and 170,006 of linters, compared with 960,899 and 199,121 on August 31 this year, and 848,431 and 131,321 on September 30 last year.

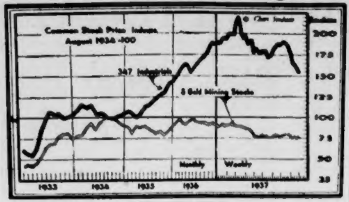
In public storage and at compresses 6,926,365 bales of lint and 52,396 of linters, compared with 3,504,127 and 47,387 on August 31 this year, and 6,652,334 and 31,706 on September 30, last year.

Imports for September totaled 5042 bales, compared with 8458 in August this year and 9142 in September last year.

Exports for September totaled 617,779 bales of lint and 12,597 of linters, compared with 230,145 and 24,779 in August this year, and 569,624 and 12,801 in September last year.

Cotton spindles active during September numbered 23,886,943 compared with 24,353,102 in August this year, and 23,518,904 in September last year.

Bear Market Hedges



Despite the drastic decline in the general stock market during most of August and September, gold mining stocks displayed resistance to the downtrend. During the upswing in the market which ended last March, the gold stocks were laggards.

The reason for the recent strength in gold shares, as pointed out by the Bulletin of the Berens Financial News Bureau, is that "gold stocks represent bear market hedges." In every period of uncertainty, says the Bureau, "gold shares are favored media of investment."

Atlas Plywood Declares Dividend

Directors of Atlas Plywood Corporation declared a quarterly dividend on the preferred stock of 32 cents a share, payable November 1 to stock of record October 25, and 50 cents on the common, the same amount as declared three months ago. The common dividend is payable November 15 to stock of record October 25.

Sales of the company for the September quarter, first quarter of the fiscal year, were 19 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago. Earnings were somewhat better than for the corresponding period of 1936.

Business Is Nation's Big Tax Provider

Why Should Legislation Be Passed to Hurt Its Health

By B. C. FORBES

Since America's livelihood and life depend upon business—as emphasized here yesterday—wouldn't it be suicidal for lawmakers to endorse legislation fatal to the health of business?

From what sources does the federal government draw most of the vast sums necessary for its existence?

Very largely from business men and business profits.

Treasury facts:

The group paying the largest total amount of income tax is that comprised of individuals having net incomes of $100,000 to $150,000 a year.

The 41 persons receiving $1,000,000 and up incomes handed over to the Federal government, in income tax, no less than $563.62 out of each $1000 earned, or well over an average of half a million dollars each.

The largest aggregate income—these figures cover 1935 — was reaped by those having net incomes of $2500 to $3000. There were 824,522. But on their total net income of $1,706,363,000 they paid only $3,910,000 in income taxes, whereas the $100,000 to $150,000 recipients handed over no less than $54,132,000, or almost one-third of their aggregate net income of $166,379,000.

* * *

How heavily dependent the people are upon business is revealed thus:

The most fruitful source of income was "salaries, wages, commissions and fees," with dividends from stocks second, and business profits third. The total income tax collections (for 1935) were $657,439,343. In addition, corporation taxes reached $$739,774,000.

On top of having to pay from one-third to one-half of their net income to federal income tax collectors, wealthy persons know that death duties, inheritance taxes and the like will absorb the greater part of what they leave—sometimes one-half, sometimes more.

* * *

Even so, government cannot finance itself simply by "soaking the rich."

"As a matter of fact," records Donald D. Conn, executive vice-president of the Transportation Association of America, "individuals with incomes under $5000 in 1935 received approximately 36 per cent of all dividends, 80 per cent of all interest payments, and 87 per cent o' all rents."

A leading life insurance company recently conducted an investigation based upon applications for Federal Housing Association loans. Fergus J. McDiarmid reports that the list contained very few having incomes over $10,000; that over 98 per cent of the applicants owned life insurance; that even among those earning less than $2000 fewer than 3 per cent were without life insurance. Referring to the surge of anti-utility federal legislation, he comments:

"If your income is above $1500, you are a very exceptional person if you cannot take a proprietary interest in the public utilities of America because of your ownership of life insurance."

* * *

The solvency of the United States government manifestly rests upon business, upon the ability of business to employ people, pay wages and earn reasonable profits. So does the solvency of all our insurance companies, whose policyholders exceed 68,000,000.

The moral is that the primary consideration of every lawmaker should be legislation calculated to encourage business and employment prosperity and to avoid inflicting more laws which would throttle economic recovery.

Stocks Advance In London

LONDON, Oct. 14 (INS)—Under the lead of international issues, stocks on the London Exchange today showed a general advance in restricted trading. Fairly heavy profit-taking later brought a reaction.

U. S. Steel dropped to 68 25-32 dollars after touching 69 15-16. International Nickel dipped from 47 to 46½, while Brazilian Traction turned down to 18 31-32 after hitting 19 11-32.

Industrial stocks continued firm with most quotations advancing. Domestic rails were steady while oil shares dipped slightly after a firm opening.

Boston & Maine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Boston and Maine railroad company asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to abandon 23 miles of its line extending from Keene station, in the city of Keene, to a point near Elmwood station, New Hampshire.

9-Power Folly May Yet Send U. S. to War

Do Americans Want to Fight Over China? Writer Asks

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

Special to the Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—What Mr. Roosevelt's new foreign policy of "concerted effort" against Japan really comes down to—unless it means nothing, as some are sceptical enough to believe—is this:

Do the America people want t go to war over China simply because the Warren Harding administration made saps of them 15 years ago?

The United States came back from France in 1919 with the greatest potential navy the world had ever seen. And we had the cash to keep it going, too.

Japan and Great Britain—both busted—couldn't keep up with the Yankee Joneses.

U. S. SANK BIG SHIPS

So England scrapped some old carracks left over from Sir Walter Raleigh's fleet, and tore up a trunkful of blueprints.

Uncle Sam sunk a whole lot of brand new first-class fighting ships, including the battleship Washington which had just been finished.

Japan gave up the Anglo-Japanese alliance—which England was going to give up anyhow—obtained a naval parity which made her superior to the United States in the Far East; Promised to give Shantung back to China (which she did with a string tied to it) and guaranteed the territorial integrity of China and the "open door."

AMERICA ARMS EUROPE

For what she got from Japan, America surrendered her place as the dominant naval power in the world. Japan kept her mandated islands lying between Hawaii and the Philippines, every one a submarine and airplane base. Eventually Uncle Sap, finding how he had been stung, had to get out of the Philippines, haul down his flag!

Then came the depression, and lately Japan has seen Uncle Sam neck deep in a $40,000,000,000 New Deal debt. It seemed like a good time to grab China, and Japan grabbed. Meanwhile Europe was arming to the teeth with about $7,000,000,000 of money which the American taxpayers had put up, and which Europe was too poor to pay back! Can you beat that?

Meanwhile, also, Uncle Sam never laid down a naval keel for three years, while the world around built tonnage. Harding had scuttled the navy as a sop to American League of Nations sentiment. We are only now building.

WHAT JAPAN GAINED

Now, in scrapping the nine-power treaty Japan is cheating. She was the big winner of the Washington conference. She got a navy that we couldn't lick, after crossing the Pacific. We couldn't even fortify our own Pacific bases. It was incredible.

All we got was the guarantee of Chinese integrity and the open door. In violating both, Japan is refusing to pay for her bargain.

But facts are facts. We can't stop Japan by soft soap, only by hard steel.

We made our mistake in 1922. Moral:

"Hindsight is more expensive than foresight."

* * *

When AAA comes back—and what a clever set-up has been planned!—Mr. Roosevelt may borrow Chester C. Davis from the Federal Reserve Board to run it again. He was the original boss of triple A.

WALLACE CHANGES VIEWS

The President likes to switch 'em around. Look how he has just switched Jimmy Ross from Securities and Exchange to Bonneville. The magic touch. Davis is now top man again in farm problems. He is the author of the tax idea for the new farm relief bill. Wallace rejected it in his statement of September 20 and declared for financing from the federal treasury. Something changed his mind by the time he outlined his policy at Memphis on October 1. As one of the head bankers Davis knows the Treasury can't stand $500,000,000 a year for the rural lads.

* * *

Vice-President Garner has won over a recruit in the cabinet. That is the explanation of Secretary Roper's surprising speech at Charleston, S. C., against the policy of continued farm benefit payments.

Garner is going to throw his influence towards immediate retrenchment and economy when he gets back. Roper is now openly on the Garner side. This may foretell quite a line of cleavage within the cabinet next winter.

Notables Attend Ogden Mills Rites

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS)—Funeral services for Ogden L. Mills, former secretary of the treasury, were to be held here today with former President Hoover, vice-President John H. Garner and other notables heading the list of honorary pallbearers.

Burial will be at Staatsburgh, N. Y., where the Mills' family home is located.

Urges Red Foes Fight Fascism

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 14 (AP)—Opponents of Communism should fight Fascism, in the opinion of the Rev. Robert G. Armstrong, secretary of the New Hampshire Congregational-Christian Conference.

"The rabid denouncers of Communism ought to be just as rabid in their denunciation of Fascism for the two are strikingly similar in their essential make-up," he said today in an editorial in the issue of the denomination's monthly publication.

"Both," he said, "are dead set against democracy. There is no fretdom under either Communism or Fascism and both are dictators of the most extrem sort. Both are to be feared by true lovers of democracy."

Catholics Hit Spain Letter

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS) — A charge that a recent "open letter" by a group of Protestant clergymen and laymen "misrepresented the facts and issues" in the Spanish revolution, came today from 175 leading Catholic clergymen and laymen representing all sections of the country.

The statement warmly defended Catholic support of General Francisco Franco and his movement against the Spanish government, but denied as hotly that Spanish bishops, in backing Franco, embraced Nazi or Fascist ideas.

The Catholic reply to the Protestant group, issued through the Rev. John Lafarge, editor of America, the national Catholic weekly, described the Spanish government as a combination of Communists, Syndicalists, Socialists and Anarchists.

No Harm to U. S. Seen in Czecho Shoe Pact

Hull Says Proposed Trade Treaty Will Be Beneficial

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (INS)—Defending the proposed reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Czechoslovakia, Secretary of State Hull today declared there is no intention of harming the American shoe industry by permitting Czecho Slovakia to flood this country with shoes manufactured by cheap labor.

Hull made this assertion in a lengthy letter answering demands by the Binghamton, N. Y., Chamber of Commerce that the United States "abandon any proposed plan for a reciprocal trade treaty with Czecho Slovakia which would permit shoes from that country to be sold and distributed in the United States without the imposition of sufficient duty to compel a sale price with which American labor can compete."

PLAN IS DENIED

Hull informed his critics:

"It is unnecessary to appeal to us to 'abandon' such a plan because no such plan has existed or exists."

Hull said the State Department already has negotiated reciprocal trade agreements with 16 other countries and that "far from injuring American industry the agreements have, on the contrary, resulted in an upswing in our foreign export trade."

"TRUE FACTS" GIVEN

Hull said the "true facts" about the proposed agreement are:

"Thus far there have been no actual negotiations about shoes or about any other specific item of the commerce between the two nations.

"Actual negotiations do not begin until there has been a thorough, precise, and exact examination on our part of the position and interests of each precise commodity in our reciprocal trade. This carries out the twofold purpose of the Congress, in setting up this trade-agreements program:

"First, to facilitate and increase the export trade of this country, by reciprocal arrangements with other countries willing to make substantial concessions to us to enable us to increase our exports to them, thereby reviving and encouraging that general economic rehabilitation and prosperity that is an essential pillar of peace.

"The cornerstones of this policy are equality of treatment, mutually profitable trade, and high living standards. It has no more paramount objective than the improvement of the conditions of labor and its standards of living.

HELP IS NEEDED

"Second, to bring about by the most careful and gradual means a lowering or removal of excessive and unreasonable trade restrictions and obstructions, thus making possible the restoration of the normal processes of international commerce and trade.

"In doing so, however, the policy of the government and of Congress is that no tariff rates or like restrictions shall be lowered to the extent of permitting unreasonable or abnormal or materially hurtful imports, nor on the other hand to leave or place the rates on an embargo level which would exclude even the slightest seepage of imports.

"On October 25, the hearing on the proposed list for discussion with Czecho-Slovakia, will be held under the auspices of the Committee for Reciprocity Information. The cooperation of interested and informed persons, desiring to help us arrive at a correct judgment and decision, is not only welcome but most necessary."

Opportunity in Canada?

THE APPOINTMENT of Dr. Lewis W. Douglas as principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University in Montreal is an unusual honor for an American, and well deserved.

The Canadian school has unquestionably acquired the services of one of the most capable young men in the United States. More questionable, certainly, is the point of our own utilization of his competent services.

As a member of Congress from Arizona, and later as Director of the Budget, he revealed a capacity for public service that might have been further utilized to our profit and that will be a tremendous asset in this new field.

We may earnestly hope his acceptance of that field in Canada is not significant of the trend of opportunities for young Americans of his exceptional capacity.

It has become apparent of late that the difficulties of keeping competent young men in the government service are pronounced. We must hope it is not becoming as difficult to keep them in America.

We do not like to think young Americans of his type are compelled to look to other lands for opportunities. Certainly we cannot blame them if, finding them there, they take them.

Since the beginning of American history young men of the world have been coming here to seek and find opportunity. IT WOULD BE UNFORTUNATE IF THAT TIDE HAS TURNED.

For America, always a nation of youthful builders and thinkers, needs competent young men today as desperately as always. We would be coming upon dark days, indeed, if the frontiers of opportunity beckoning our young men lead them into more promising lands.

Dr. Frank's Wise Advice

DR. GLENN FRANK, former University of Wisconsin president, addressing the American Bankers' Association here, defended democracy.

"Despite its many weaknesses, democracy," he said, "is both safer than, and superior to, dictatorship.

"The centralization of power has always ended in tyranny. All down through the ages when men sought to centralize power, it has been on the assumption that power would be used for noble ends. But there is absolutely no guarantee it will.

"Lodge enough power over the nation's enterprise in Washington and, no matter how wisely the power might be used at the outset, we could be swung to the Fascist right or the Communist left with equal facility, according to the mind and purpose of the national leadership that happened to hold the reins of power at any given time."

That is the truth, and the experience of all nations proves it. History abounds with stories of benevolent despots who either became or gave way to cruel tyrants.

As Dr. Frank has often said, the people's rights are hard won rights, achieved only through centuries of struggle and suffering. They are easily surrendered, but exceedingly difficult to recover.

It was this fact, thoroughly understood by Washington, Franklin, Jefferson and other founders of this country, that caused our Constitution to be so explicit in its opposition to centralized power.

Democracy and money have much in common; there is always someone eager to seize both when the owners slumber.

Weed Out the "Traitors"!

COMMISSIONER TIMILTY, expressing a determination to expose the persons responsible for wholesale frauds in Charlestown vote listings, orders his ace investigators to turn their resources against their fellow officers in the police department.

We hope he is sincere. The patrolman involved in a scheme to fill vacant lots and cram abandoned houses with "voters" merits no consideration.

The act of such a man tends to besmirch the name of the entire department. And he becomes all that Commissioner Timilty has called him—"a traitor."

"Fraternalism" should never protect traitors.

In this investigation, which must succeed if Boston is to have an honest mayoralty election, one man deserves credit. He is City Councillor James J. Mellen of Charlestown.

When reports of fraudulent listings were brought to his attention by citizens supporting him for re-election, he turned the information over to the election commission and Mr. Timilty. The current inquiry resulted.

The voters of Boston, therefore, have Councillor Mellen to thank for a courageous championship of good government. He acted solely in the spirit of fairness.

Other candidates would do well to take a leaf from the Mellen book and join in the war on "mattress voting." Certainly no candidate who expected to profit from such a racket would be a very desirable official were he elected.

Colonel Lindbergh's Tip

THE prediction that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh made in Germany interests the United States, Boston and New England especially.

Airplanes of the near future, he forecast, would fly the Atlantic in 33 hours, 29 minutes. It would be possible for a man to dine in Boston one day and in London or Paris the next.

Boston, as every school child knows, is the nearest American city to Europe. Geography and efficiency argue powerfully for our airport. It is the logical site for the trans-oceanic air base.

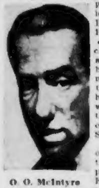
Consequently, taking a tip from Colonel Lindbergh, we ought to resume our campaign to induce the government in Washington to make Boston the official destination for the Atlantic day trips.

We can become aviation metropolis of the New World, and we will—provided all our New England Senators and Representatives unite in support of this important matter.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—The art ambulandi is almost lost to the metropolis. There are no accomplished strollers, such as Robert Cortes Holliday. Out of 100 walking clubs ten years ago, only a half dozen remain. About the only upholders of walking are the members of the Boy Scouts.



O. O. McIntyre

Even that old stand-by, the 5 o'clock promenade on Fifth ave. is gone. Men who used to walk from offices to clubs now go in motor cars or taxis. Kin Hubbard used to say the only way to cross a New York street was to lead a cow. The reason, of course, is the traffic jam.

Plus the feeling of danger in braving so many crossings, checkers have found that all the important corners have from 20 to 30 per cent fewer pedestrians at the peak hours. Visitors who have not been here in several years immediately notice the slow-up of the sidewalk flow.

One of the most auspicious survivors of the walking age still is Dr. John Finley of the Times, who heels off his five miles a day no matter the weather. Most of the valiants who used to circle the gravel path around the Central Park reservoir have called it a day. And are seen no more.

That odd home of William Gillette, the octogenarian actor, on a fling of Connecticut countryside, continues to be for sale, although it represents an investment of $800,000 and an asking price of only $150,000. And for that it must be sold to the right person. Only one in sympathy with the actor's labor of love.

There winds through the grounds a complete practical miniature railroad. That was the hobby that engrossed the delineator of the Sherlock Holmes role for years. And while fascinating to children, is likely to be met with a yawn tap by most grownups.

Yet unless one can show proper sympathy and agree to preserve the estate as it is, it will not be sold.

* * *

And driving along past the Gillette estate we veered off on an unused back road and passed a broken down goat's nest of farm houses proclaiming utter desolation. Someone in the car remarked: "What poor souls eke out existence here?"

And then there was noted a "For Sale" sign and a gaunt farmer and his entire brood were assembled in a side yard, all ready to depart in a trailer, loaded with valises and bundles for greener pastures. And we hoped better fortune.

* * *

Also one wonders whence come the patrons for the jinkle-jumbles of ceramics on sale at those roadside pottery stands. Big vases of scarlet, green and yellow, large enough to take a bath in. Every day they are placed in the yard in precise geometric array and a member of the family stands in waiting anticipation.

Yet in years of motoring by them I have never seen a customer.

* * *

Too, we came on an ancient ice house, rifted and ridged with age. The roof was sagging and about to cave in and the clap-board walls were silvered with the hoariness of years. The ice house, once a sort of mysterious cavern in small towns, has given away to the progress of modern refrigeration, and this was the only left-over I've seen in a decade.

* * *

Among the Hollywoodites who are giving the planes a big play is George Jessel. He flew in the other evening, for instance, to have dinner with some friends and winged westward again the same evening.

* * *

One of the ranters was rabble-rousing from his step-ladder in West 72nd, right off Broadway, the other evening. In climaxing his hot-gospeling he inquired shrilly and paused for answer: "What do we see on every hand?"

And a passing smart alec in a roadster shouted: "Four fingers and a thumb, you mug!"

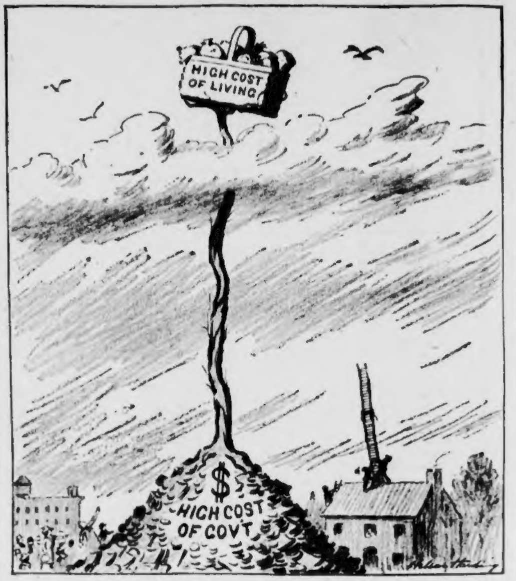
At the Bottom of It

By Nelson Harding



In the old Fairy Story, a Bean Stalk grew until it reached above the clouds.

The Cost of Living has been making a similar ascent—and that's no Fairy Tale, either.

The Fable fails to explain what fertilized the Bean Stalk so miraculously.

But we KNOW what has been making the Cost of Living soar—the High Cost of Government, with its enormous supercharge of taxation, does it.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Every morning they are waiting for me.

Set aside in a dark pile by themselves, apart from the happy, eager, chatting letters.

Elsie Robinson

The pitiful pleas of those who've been robbed by death.

Yesterday life was as full and fearless for them as it was for those others. And as proud in its fullness. Radiant and mothers and beaming dads, boasting of beautiful babes. Devoted sons and daughters, telling tenderly of some frail old mother, some fine old father. Adoring lovers, wrapt in dreams.

And now—they are broken, bankrupt. Facing a suddenly empty life. Bitterly eyeing those whom Death has not robbed. Wondering how they, themselves, can go on. Or why they should try.

Perhaps you've asked that question. Felt, even as you asked, that there was no answer. And so gone limping on—with trailing banners. For what's the use of pretending when your heart is broken? Why go through the gestures when there's really no more to do?

LOVE AND LOSS

That feeling of bankruptcy, uselessness—there's nothing crueler in our human existence. To be so needed one moment . . . so unnecessary the next. Nothing to do, no one to serve. Just wiped out.

I know. I've been through it, and for days—months—I limped, too. Just as you're doing. Then life caught hold again—as she'll do if we give her a chance. And I made a discovery.

I wasn't bankrupt! I wasn't unneeded! There was a job for me to do—a big, a glorious job!

I HAD LOVED. I HAD LOST. AND NOW IT WAS UP TO ME TO PROVE THAT LOVE WAS WORTH WHATEVER IT COST!

They had been so beautiful—those few, lovely years my boy and I had had together. We were poor. He was always in pain. But love had lifted us above it all . . . strengthened us for any risk . . . comforted us in any failure.

And now he was gone. And I was alone. So terribly alone! Then what? I could go on limping . . . grieving . . . rankling—feeling cheated. Hating happier people more and more. Showing with every desolate sigh and tear that love had cost more than I could bear—

Or I could refuse to limp—refuse to grieve and regret. Instead, I could live triumphantly, as befits one who has gone on a great adventure and known great pride and joy!

I COULD BE A LIVING MONUMENT TO LOVE!

All around me there were those who were afraid to love greatly . . . who counted and begrudged love's cost!

PROOF OF DEVOTION

What the world needed, and urgently, was someone who would prove, by their own life, that love was worth whatever one had to pay . . . that love was lasting and lovely, even through tears. And I could be that Someone!

There was my job! There was a service which I still could render to my boy . . . an honor I could still show him.

I COULD WEAR HIS MEMORY, NOT AS A SIGN OF TRAGEDY BUT AS A BADGE OF VICTORY . . . A PROOF THAT LOVE STILL LIVED, STILL PAID, EVEN ACROSS THE GRAVE!

What can you do, now that your dear one has gone? That is what you can do. Walk the more proudly . . . fight the more bravely . . . serve the more gently . . . give the more gallantly . . . to prove to the world that LOVE PAYS.

Marry -GO- Round

By Helen Rowland

A brand new complaint from a modern young man has come to my desk. He says that the girl of today is "unappealing." The debutante, he asserts, is cold, unsympathetic and wears a poker face, while the business girl is more interesting, but "hard-boiled."

That is a terrible indictment. Because "appeal," whether sex-appeal or emotional appeal, is what every woman likes to think she has, and her yearning for "eye-appeal" is what makes the beauty specialists rich.

The girl of today tries to be what men have been urging women to be for centuries—"reasonable!" That's all. She swallows her emotions, chokes back hypersensitiveness and keeps a stiff upper lip.

THE REASON

Probably that is why she is less "appealing." Because she is not constantly playing on a man's sympathy just in order to hold his attention and keep his love from going into a coma.

She may not have the soft, coquettish, clinging ways, which appeal to a man's vanity, catch his imagination and wind themselves around his heart. But neither has she that stranglehold on his conscience or his protective chivalry.

The modern girl has learned that a woman's emotions are always either a nuisance or a bore to a man; and she hides hers behind a poker face and just laughs them off.

But she is not hard-boiled INSIDE; because there is no such thing as a hard-boiled woman—emotionally.

We are all "one-minute-eggs" at heart. And the girl of today is just a SWELL RELIEF from her predecessor!

That's That

By Bruce Gustin

During the 1932 campaign, President Roosevelt promised that his administration would cut the cost of Federal Government by at least 25 per cent.

The Federal Government then was spending approximately five billion dollars a year. It was taking in about two billions.

Now it is spending over eight billions and receipts are up around the seven-billion mark.

IF THE PRESIDENT, FIVE YEARS AGO, COULD SEE A WAY TO SLASH MORE THAN ONE BILLION DOLLARS FROM A FIVE-BILLION-DOLLAR BUDGET, HE CERTAINLY SHOULD BE ABLE TO CUT SEVERAL BILLIONS OFF AN EIGHT-BILLION-DOLLAR BUDGET.

If the Federal Government, five years ago, could be made to function while spending less than four billion dollars a year, there is no justification for spending eight billions a year now.

There is no reason why the cost of government should have doubled in these last five years. Its value to the people hasn't doubled in that period.

President Roosevelt has never admitted he didn't know what he was talking about in 1932 when he argued the cost of the Federal Government could be cut to four billion dollars a year.

* * *

From Senator Adams (D.) of Colorado, a member of the Senate appropriations committee, comes a proposal that the President and Congress divide the responsibility of balancing the budget next year.

His idea is for the President to cut expenditures by 25 per cent.

Then, Congress would increase taxes enough to provide whatever additional revenue is needed to balance the budget.

No more taxes should be necessary.

* * *

President Roosevelt should know how to balance the budget without any more tax increases.

Co-operating, a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress should be able not only to balance the budget but to reduce taxes at the same time and have a surplus left to apply on the national debt.

That is what they both are pledged to do.

* * *

Calculations that the market value of all the stocks listed on the New York Exchange declined by approximately nine billion dollars during September show how big this country really is. Only a nation of enormous business and financial vitality could endure such a blow without batting an eye.

So far as the great mass of people are concerned, most of them wouldn't have known the market had the jitters if newspaper headlines hadn't caught their eyes.

In the opinion of some foreign military experts Japan's showing in her undeclared war against China does not entitle her to be classed any longer as a first class power. Even the Chinese do not seem to rate the military prowess of the invaders very highly.

On With the Dance!

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

It's the Big Apple these days, and it's sweeping the country. Arthur Murray, America's foremost authority on the dance, who has taught the Morgans and the Rockefellers, tells me that the Big Apple can be defined as a square dance in swing time.

Edwin C. Hill

It all started down South in Columbia, S. C. A bunch of college boys out slumming saw the dance and took notes for their prom. Then it spread far and wide. Today it's sweeping the whole country.

With the original barbaric qualities softened just a bit, the Big Apple has moved into Metropolitan night life and finds as its sponsor in New York the tony Rainbow Room of Rockefeller Center and the equally swanky Sands Point Bath Club, as well as numerous other country clubs.

It's the informality of the Apple, says Arthur Murray, that makes both the wall-flowers and the shy lads forget their self-consciousness and join the gaiety. One of the dance group, which may number from 10 to 20—the more the merrier—calls the steps. The dancers, who have formed a circle, begin tapping in a loose, Stepin Fetchit style, spreading out into the Charleston and then into a dither of trucking.

NO TWO ALIKE

Actually there is no set routine to the Big Apple. You just follow the caller until, as Mr. Murray's Big Applers phrase it, you dance it right to the core. Eleanor Roberts has the feel of this hilarious Big Apple whoopla. Recently she wrote:

"Hold your breath and hang on tight, honey-chile, for yo' all is goin' to town, trundling your torso in the newest dance craze from the South—the Big Apple! They called it the square dance in Grandma's day, but you can bet that Hoop-Skirt Hattie never had to sling her satiny limbs at the interesting angles they do in the Big Apple.

"If a gal has plenty of floating power, good knee action, and that something!—then she's all set to 'apple.' But—if the natural oil in your joints has dried up, whoa Nellie, for it's pretty hard to untangle one's hinges when they're caught in the Suzy-Q."

The Big Apple is strenuous.

The "apple" is a combination of several Carolina jigs—the flea-hop, truckin', shinin', Suzy-Q, Praise Allah, and a dash of Virginia Reel, to add to the general confusion. The Big Apple is heaven's own gift to the wall-flower—to the girl nobody wants. She can hop right into this hectic hilarity and forget that she has two left feet.

FOR PEPPY GIRLS

As Arthur Murray says, she finds new things to do with her feet. She can lift her hands heavenward in the most fervent "Praise Allah," and may even dance her way straight into the heart of any one of the five or ten boys in the group.

Since she has to dance with all of them they get a chance to see what she's like without having to take the responsibility of the whole number on their shoulders, and if a girl has a lot of vim and a peppy personality what she can't do in the way of "appling" is nobody's business.

Some dances get hot slowly, like electric cook stoves and concert violinists, but the Big Apple is like a gas stove or a temperamental opera singer—it bursts into immediate flame.

There's a sort of plastic hitch of the hips which comprises the Suzy-Q, with a lot of climatic friskings hither and thither which leave the participants sniffing for oxygen.

"The dancers can go as far as they like in the Big Apple," Mr. Murray tells me.

"Usually one couple dances to the middle of the circle and jigs around with plenty of jerky knee-action, burning every ounce of excess energy.

"The others in the group keep time doing an 'in place' truckin' step with a few tricky flip-flops. Then the caller shouts, 'Truck to the right, reverse, shine 'em up boys, shine 'em up boys,' and then, with a loud 'Praise Allah,' yea man, Praise Allah,' they go into a gambol like a flock of spring lambs."

EVERYTHING GOES

Actually there is no set routine to the Big Apple. If a chap feels like doing an apache number with his current heart-throb, then the more fun to it. They go in for a lot of curves and aerial flips when the evening is well on its way, and a few have been known to land, on what, for propriety's sake, might be termed their medulla oblongata.

And so it is in one of the most modern, mongrel and magnificent dances of today—the Big Apple, where rhythms of the curvilinear line count and reflective Lulus hit a home run in every inning.

March of Events

By Benjamin DeCasseres

In the attempt to drag up into the Sino-Japanese war, we find that what the European powers really want us to do is to "PLAY SHOP" with them.

The mask is "horror" over the undoubted brutality of the Japanese slaughter of Chinese civilians. The fact is CONCESSION and TRADE.

England not only has vast landed and trade interests in China, but if Japan conquers China, Australia, India and Hong Kong are threatened.

France has a great big hunk of Shanghai, called a "concession," hanging from her jaws, besides which there are her possessions in Cochin-China, the eastern portion of the Indo-China peninsula, another huge chunk with billions of francs at stake.

Even Germany has indorsed our new international about-face because in spite of her anti-Communist treaty with Japan she has a 200,000,000-mark trade balance with China, with extensive interests in Nanking. Besides, she hasn't forgotten that Japan grabbed Shantung province from Germany, which Germany had previously bitten out of China's hide.

Now Uncle Sam has been elected to do all the dirty work in the East for England, France and Germany while they do the dirty work in Europe.

* * *

The holding company of these international rascals is the League of Nations, which suddenly felt a new thrill of life in its soul when it heard the news from America that we might "play ball" with the League.

But these bit-by-bit snitchers of China—who are now playing the "humanity" game—have not heard from the AMERICAN PEOPLE.

The latest returns, in a Congressional poll by the Philadelphia Inquirer, is 3 to 1 against the United States being the cat's paw for Europe in China.

When the returns are all in it will be 90 to 1 against the League and 100 to 1 for NO WAR.

* * *

Beau Brummell, the male fashion-plate of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, was walking down the London Mall one morning doing his strut when he passed Richard Brinsley Sheridan ("Sherry"), the Bernard Shaw of his age, on the arm of a somewhat rotund fellow.

Brummell paused for a moment, adjusted his monocle and said to Sheridan:

"I say, Sherry, who's your fat friend?"

Sherry's fat friend was the Prince of Wales, afterward King George the Fourth, with whom the beau had had a tiff.

Brummell was the one-man fashion show of his time, and he was so wittily insolent that kings and princes put up with the sting in his tongue. But Brummell died in rags in a fourth-class French hotel.

My mind naturally ran on Brummell and Beau Nash, who lived one hundred years before Brummell and who was distinguished enough to have a public funeral, when I read that New York held its first male fashion show at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel the other day.

But the "dandies" of today are not Beau Brummells or Beau Nashes. They have the forms—some of them—but the wit of the ancient dandies has dried up to "wisecracks."

Three educators have hit the "arrogant acts" of European dictators and reaffirmed the American doctrine of "absolute academic liberty."

These educators were the new presidents of three colleges—Dr. Seymour of Yale, Dr. Day of Cornell and Dr. Baxter of Williams.

It is, however, not enough to "reaffirm" in fine rhetorical periods the "freedom" of our colleges. If that freedom is to be kept, those who preach doctrines in state-supported and tax-free educational institutions that are FUNDAMENTALLY CONTRARY to academic freedom should be told to get out and hire a hall or a soap box.

Anyone who propagates Communism, Fascism or Nazism in state-supported or semi-state-supported colleges and schools is subverting not only academic freedom of teaching, but all forms of freedom.

YOU CAN'T SIT DOWN AND KEEP YOUR LIBERTIES. You can't just say "I believe in Democracy" and then walk away to a golf game.

Liberty and Democracy must be FOUGHT FOR every moment—like your health, your job your family.

There are, unfortunately, too many minor "educators" who launch heated polemics for "freedom" who really mean the freedom to teach collectivist doctrines—which are the DEATH OF ALL LIBERTIES.

It is so rare that we Americans ever hear anything complimentary said about us by Europeans that it is with something of an egotistic tickle that I read in the "Autobiography" of John Cowper Powys, the English essayist and lecturer, the following:

"There is real democracy in America. A man is a man and a woman is a woman. Though the former may be called a 'guy.'"

As a matter of fact, the nearest the world has ever come to a "classless society" is these United States. Soviet Russia aimed at a "classless society." What she got is a society with two distinct classes—one is in jail or underground and the other is walking around as "free" as prisoners in a jail-yard.
